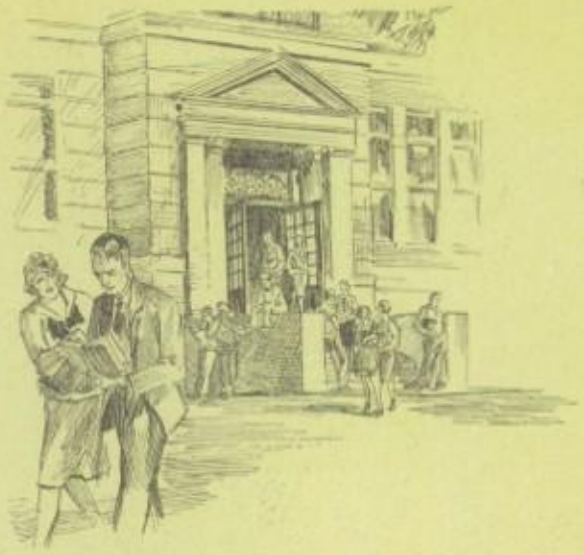
Foreword

To forge another link in the Daisy Chain of memories has been our object in publishing this year book. We hope it will stand as a memorial of the happy years spent in the WACO HIGH SCHOOL.



Dedication

TO

MISS GLADYS ALLEN

In acknowledgment of her inspiration as a teacher; her sincere interest in the school activities; and her genuine comradeship; the senior class of 1928 affectionately dedicates this Annual.

Spirit of Waco High

We love our flag the Stars and Stripes,
We love our native land;
We love our state, its single star,
For it we proudly stand.
But from our hearts a loyalty, we give with main and might,
To Waco High, and we will fly the colors,
Gold and White.

When school days end and we look back on years in Waco High,
Our hearts will fill with memories of happy days gone by.
'Tis then our loyalty will rise above what time can tell,
And as of yore, we'll sing once more the song we love so well.

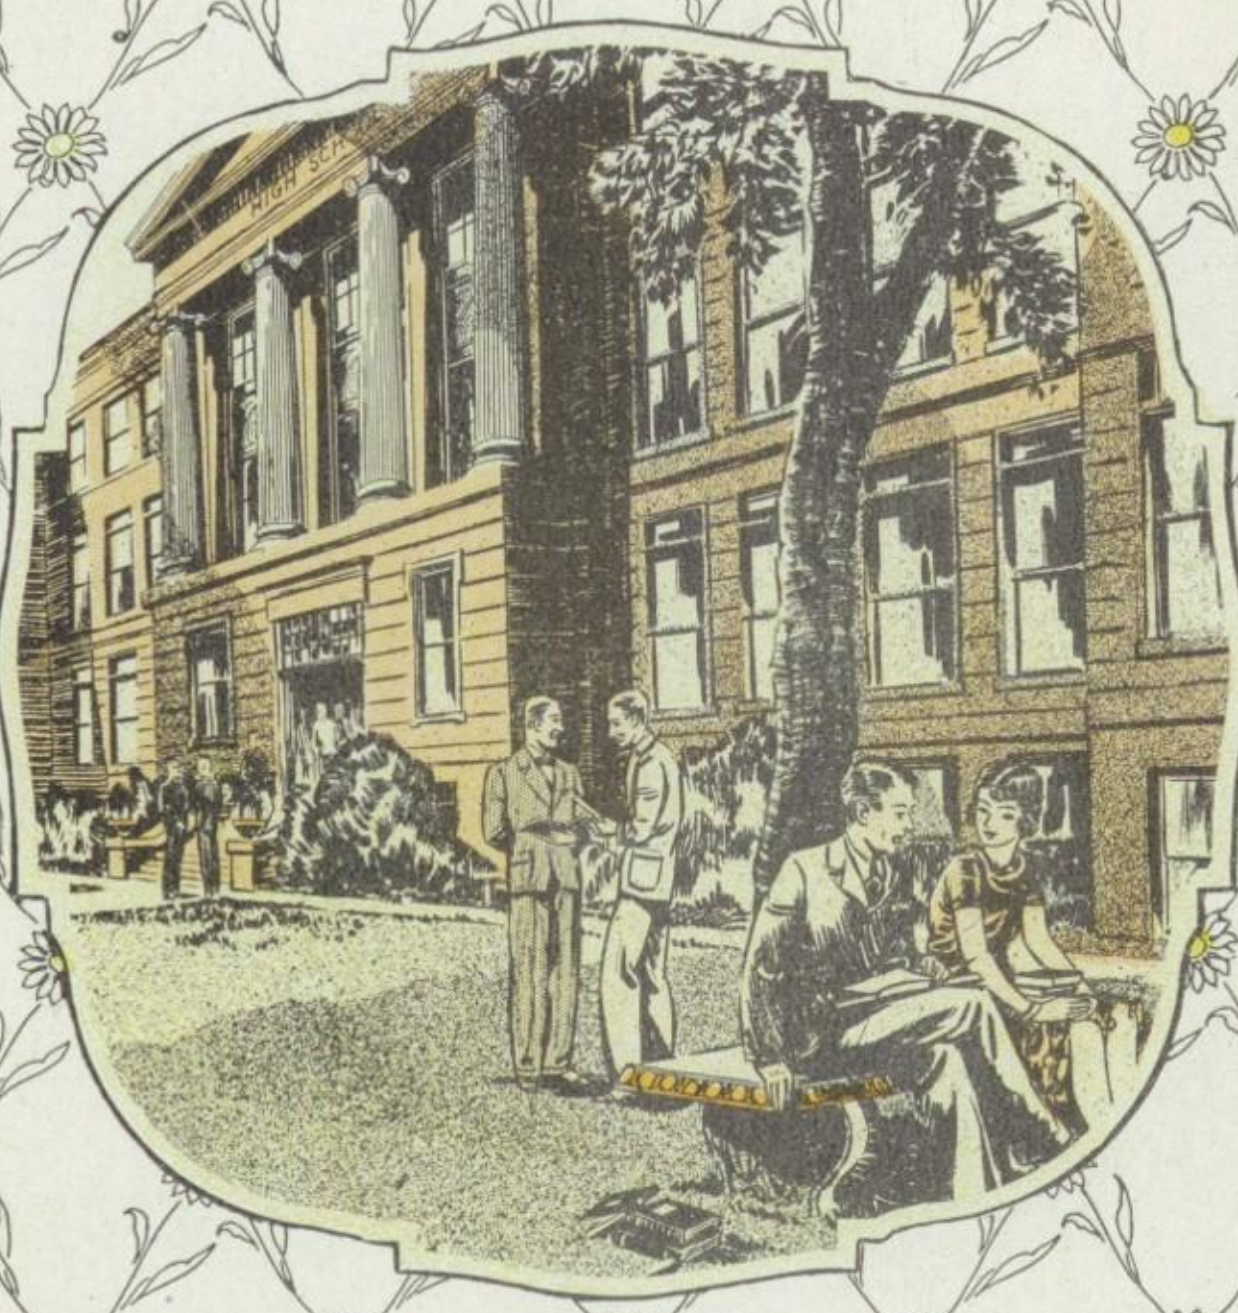
CHORUS

Spirit of Waco is in our hearts so strong
Gladly our voices shout the mighty song;
In battle or contest, we ever stand by you,
Spirit of Waco to Waco High School true.



The SCHOOL

HERE'S to the dear old pile of bricks called Waco Hi! As a mere building it has no soul, but as the workshop of 66 teachers and 1883 students in the various stages of "fish" development it has a tremendous gold and white soul.

By night it is only a big shadow reminding students of problems unsolved, lessons unwritten. But by day—except on Saturday, Sunday or holiday—it becomes the hive of football stars, b l o n d e s and brunettes, sprinters, students and other persons seeking to impart or imbibe knowledge. So it has become the left ventricle of the Heart of Waco.

ADMINISTRATION

Superintendent B. B. Cobb

One of the distinct pleasures of the past year has been my association with you, the students of the Waco High School. I wish I could bring you, in this brief word, a message that would be helpful during all the days that lie ahead, something that would inspire you to use wisely your opportunities and to meet faithfully and efficiently your obligations. Since I cannot do that, I must content myself with a simple message of friendship—the wish that you may keep yourselves clean of body, mind and soul, that you may play the game of life fairly, accepting victory without boasting, and meeting defeat without complaint.

B. B. Cobb

Principal E. T. Genheimer

Sons and Daughters of Waco High:

The citizens of Waco and of Texas have placed within your reach the means and the opportunity by which you may secure that culture and training which will best fit you for the special thing you may do for a livelihood and that will give you a vision of usefulness that will inspire you to give to society a service that is commensurate with the opportunities that are yours.

You may render a direct and a very important service now and in the future by encouraging those who are or may be in the high school to uphold and support the ideals of this school by taking full advantage of the opportunities the school affords.

E. T. Genheimer

Dean Annie M. Forsgard

To Our Boys and Girls:

Society is in sympathy with the aspirations, the honest efforts, the achievements of you, the youth of our land. The power of example is great. Be courageous, loyal and true. Strive to attain that which is highest and best. You are the promise of the nation. Let our trust in you be not misplaced.

SENIORS

WE have almost climbed Fools' Hill; we have mastered for a time the split infinitive, the cube root of unknown things and other dainty morsels of knowledge. Now like gay-plumed knights of old—with gray tasseled caps, instead—we are accoutered to do battle with the eagle on the dollar or to climb, a little higher, the shaggy sides of over-towering Parnassus. But no matter what little prize package the future may hold for us—good or ill—we shall never meet life with a more invincible courage and a braver heart.

"Last, but not least—by Heck."

A Dream Realized

Is this truly the graduation
That we have often dreamed,
Or is it a hasty salutation
Of an idle vision schemed?

Is all this movement and confusion
But the fancy of the mind,
Or is it merely an allusion
Of a pleasant, dreamy kind?

Ah! Far, far from it, for at last
Our dreams have all come true,
And on the brink of life we mast
Our sail for lands anew.

Our teachers, classmates, all, farewell!
To us this parting's sad,
For you've done more than lips can tell
To make our voyage glad.

We've been inspired to the wealth of gold,
In realms beyond the sea,
To secure the best of charms untold
No matter how far they may be.

We'll guide our ships of work and faith
And watch by day and night
For a gleam of success that ever stayeth
'Mid the wealth of doing right.

For the greatest in life we mean to strive
And do what the best have done;
We shall work with a spirit ever alive
From the time our journey is begun.

—Rethel Pharr.

Mid-Year Class History

"Year after year beheld the silent toil
That spread his lustrous coil;
Still as the spiral grew,
He left the past year's dwelling for the new."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

FOUR short, yet eventful years ago, we came to you, Waco High, merely as many boys and girls, with varied expectations, ambitions and interests. At once you became a common bond which bound us as one. We learned to treasure and respect your traditions, to love you, to love each other—to call you "alma mater."

As the world of men and women dawned upon us—as we were acquiring knowledge in the school of arts and sciences and experience in the school of life you taught us the beauty of achievement in work and in play. Our playmates of yesterday became our friends of today. In those fleeting few years when the clay was first hardening in the ever-changing mold, common experiences of men and women of mature years taught us that no relationship formed throughout their lives possessed the enduring and true qualities of those formed in our school days. We are ready to believe, though our youthful view may not be as wise as that of sager minds, that these early formed friendship ties are more lasting than any others.

We dreamed dreams and learned to toil towards their fulfillment, but often it was our lot to have darker hours of disappointment and disillusion. We learned to put behind us the mistakes of yesterday, and we strived to seize the opportunities of today. In these dark as well as brighter days we learned the necessity of discrimination and strived for prudence of decisions.

Now, as we stand on the threshold of young manhood and womanhood, we are confident of depending on the experience of well spent years in our triumphs as well as our defeats. We are passing on for safekeeping these sacred traditions, many given to us, a few formed during our short stay, keeping only their memory.

—RUTH CARROLL.

June Class Poem

With apologies to Kaufman

My Name? They call me the Teacher. You have heard of Waco High School, it seems.
Perhaps it has happened, my comrade, you know of their great football teams?
Ah, then you must guess how my fingers are itching to talk to a pen,
For I was at Waco and saw it, the class of '28, young women and men.

Let me tell you a bit of their story; how they came from the South and the West,
In their van lay three years of endeavor and study without any rest.
The old longing for pleasure held them, held them body and soul—
Held the road that they followed, and covered the direct approach to the goal.

Hard work at the best was the fate of their mission—to their glory not one was dismayed.
Junior year took its toll, and three hundred survived, till the last task they essayed,
And they passed to the Senior year. Another achievement! Again
Some students were lost, to our sorrow, but the class had not battled in vain.

They are leaving; graduation is coming. They will go in a moment, and then,
Then out in the world of the workers (This High School, my comrade, breeds men)
Burst these new ones, a wonderful group—they will love truth and every man!
Dear God, please remember the pattern, and make many more on their plan.

—Bobby Sparkman.

June Class History

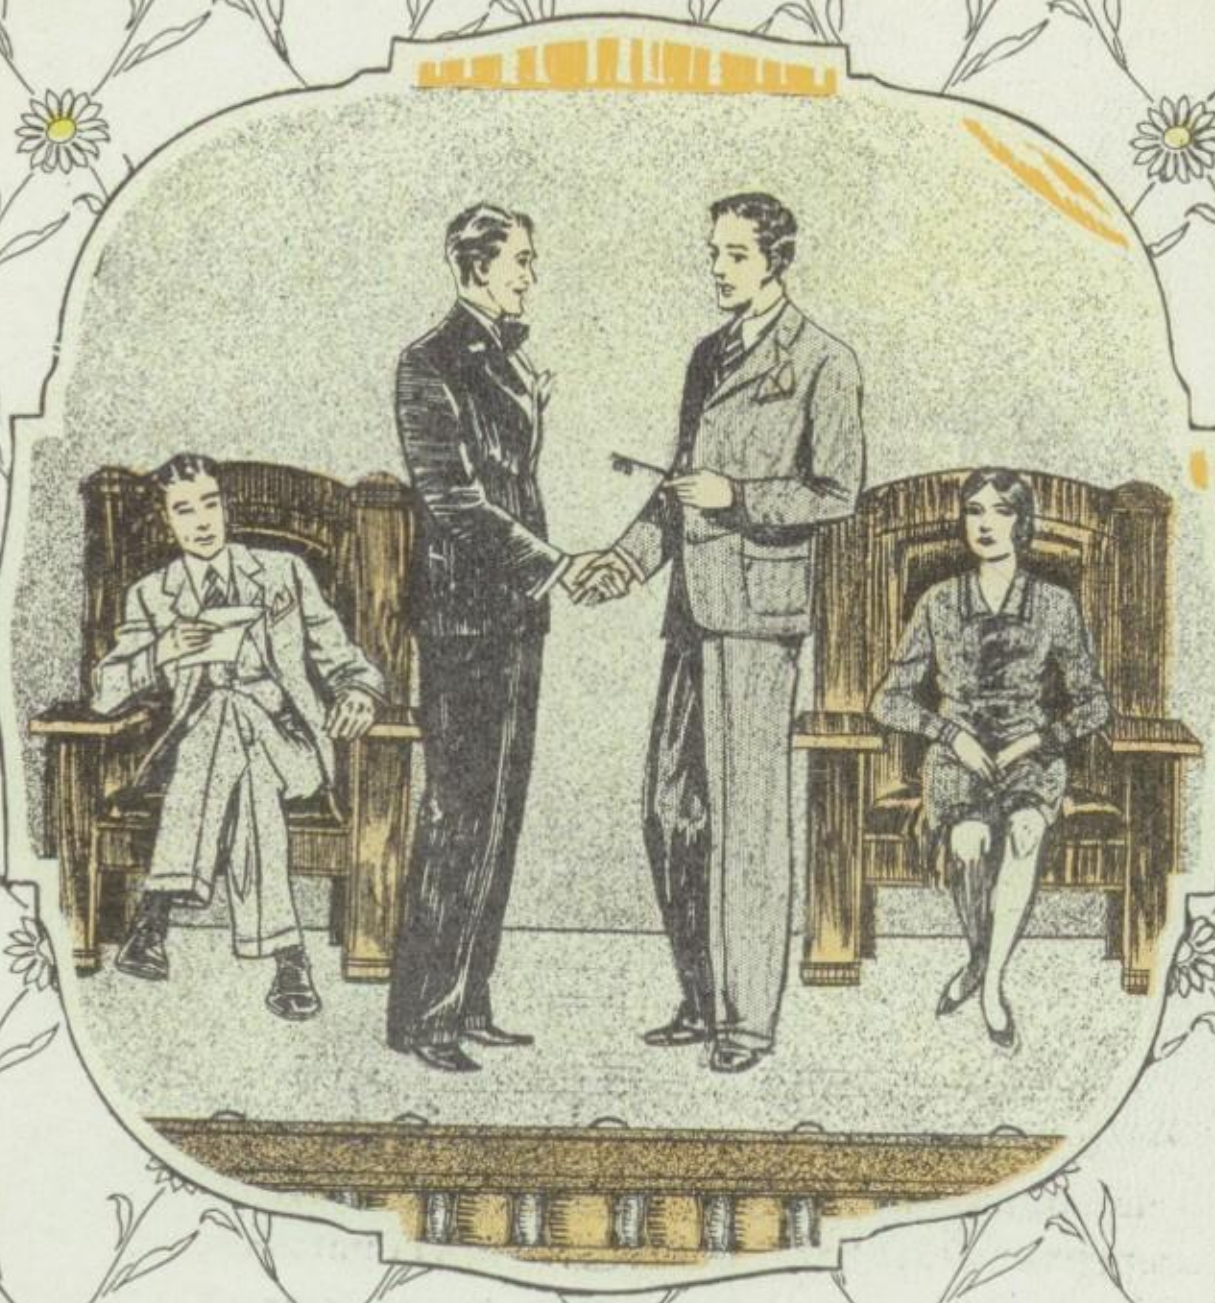
"ONCE, in the dear, dead days beyond recall—" in September, 1925, to be exact, scores of freshmen lined the walks of the Waco High School: a chattering, laughing mass of excited youngsters, eager to begin the mysterious life of a high school student. Their new surroundings proved interesting enough to these Freshmen; but as time passed, the glory was somewhat dimmed by the presence of omnipotent upper-classmen. These practical "urchins," as Mr. Bernhauser calls them, determined to study with might and main in order to become tenth-graders with utmost speed. A studious year was punctuated at weekly intervals by victorious football games, and our Tigers capped the climax by winning the Texas state championship, which was celebrated at the annual Tiger banquet. The spring of 1926 was made memorable by awards to the music and literary societies.

By the time September of 1926 arrived our heroes and heroines had passed through a metamorphosis, and have the title of "Juniors." They were seated in the upper study hall, and were given lockers on the second floor. Numbers of them took up the study of "Caesar's Gallic Wars," and some turned toward botany. At the close of another school year that Tiger team again won the championship and the Glee Club brought the choral cup home from the Belton Music Meet.

Since "all things come to those who wait" (provided they wait long enough), our heroic group at last earned Senior privileges. They were as much at home in the building as by their own firesides; they could fill out library slips with their eyes closed; they knew almost every member of the faculty by sight and name, and most of them were on intimate terms, through many conferences, with Miss Forsgard and Mr. Genheimer. Many of these students—or should we say scholars—signed up for chemistry, and from that time till this have drunk not a drop of water—only H^2 O. All Seniors who were six feet tall, or more, were assigned positions as traffic officers, and many a miscreant has suffered imprisonment or been fined by merciless "cops."

Then came the dawn, as they say in the movies, and the Seniors realized that they were really going to leave Waco High. The Senior smiles were a trifle dewy, as each member of the class of 1928 thought of all the glad times and the sad times, the easy subjects, the battles lost and won, and the friendships made and cemented during three of the happiest years of his life.

—MARTHA WITTY.



The SCHOOL YEAR

SCHOOL days would be drab indeed if they were all work and no play, but there is always plenty of play. There is an outlet for every talent in school. For the fellow with a little ink in his veins there are the two publications, the weekly "Rag" and the year book. Both require a strong mind and an ability to take worries lightly. For the fellows who sing there are the glee clubs and for the student who desires to toot his own horn, the orchestra or the band. In case a student just must talk he may, if he works hard, represent the school in debate or declamation. Then there are—but there are too many activities to mention all of them.

Concerning the Favorites

THE favorites in this section prove that beauty and brains do make a happy combination, and that even though gentlemen prefer blondes the Seniors prefer both blondes and brunettes.

A committee of ten Senior boys was asked to nominate twelve Senior girls who had actively upheld the traditions of the school and had been identified with worth-while activities. The list of nominees was presented to the Seniors with the proviso that other nominations might be made, but no others were made. Therefore the girls in this section represent the ideal girls of Waco High.

ALENE SMITH . . . . . Editor-in-Chief
JIMMY WRIGHT . . . . . Business Manager

Alene Smith was elected unanimously at the beginning of the year as editor-in-chief of the year book. As a cub reporter on the weekly publication she showed her liking for hard work and demonstrated that she had a ready wit coupled with a head full of convolutions.

Jimmy Wright, although only of vest-pocket edition size, proved to be large enough to act as manager for both school publications. When it came to getting ads or telling somebody else how to he was the original "Than which there is no than whicher."

But during that year he made himself such a necessary part of every activity he engaged in that no one was surprised when he was given one of the highest honors within the power of the Seniors.

JIMMY WRIGHT, as business manager of the weekly paper, performed his duties so well that he was asked to head the business staff of the year book. He's a regular "two-in-one," but not shoe polish.

Debate and Declamation

FOUR girls, members of the Genheimer debating society, competed for the right to represent Waco High in district debating. Dorothy Logue and Valorie Shaw, seniors, won over Marcita Miller and Dorothy Rushing, underclassmen. Dollie Lee Davis, also a Genheimer member, was judged the ablest declaimer, Orvetta Dunson winning second place.

The debating team went to the semi-finals, and Dollie Lee Davis went to the finals in declamation.

Both debaters and declaimers were coached by H. G. Stovall, of the public speaking department. Mr. Stovall has written a number of debate pamphlets, and has collaborated on others. He has made an enviable record since being head of the public speaking department.

Debating Teams

At the annual forensic clash between the rival debate clubs of Waco High, the Rostra and Forum, the Forum team won the right to represent the school in district and state meets. Franklin Bannister and Clyde DeHay of the Forum won over Floyd Huddleston and J. R. Maxfield of the Rostra. Bannister and DeHay won at the district meet and at the time the annual was put to press the team was in Austin planning to win state honors.

At the district meet Jack Brooks, first declaimer, and J. T. Couch, second declaimer, competed and Couch won first place.

J. L. Lattimore and A. J. Smith, extempore speakers, entered the district meet at Baylor and Smith won second place.

Waco will be represented at Houston by J. T. Jackson in the national oratorical contest.

All representatives of public speaking were coached by H. G. Stovall who has proved to be one of the ablest coaches the school has ever boasted of.

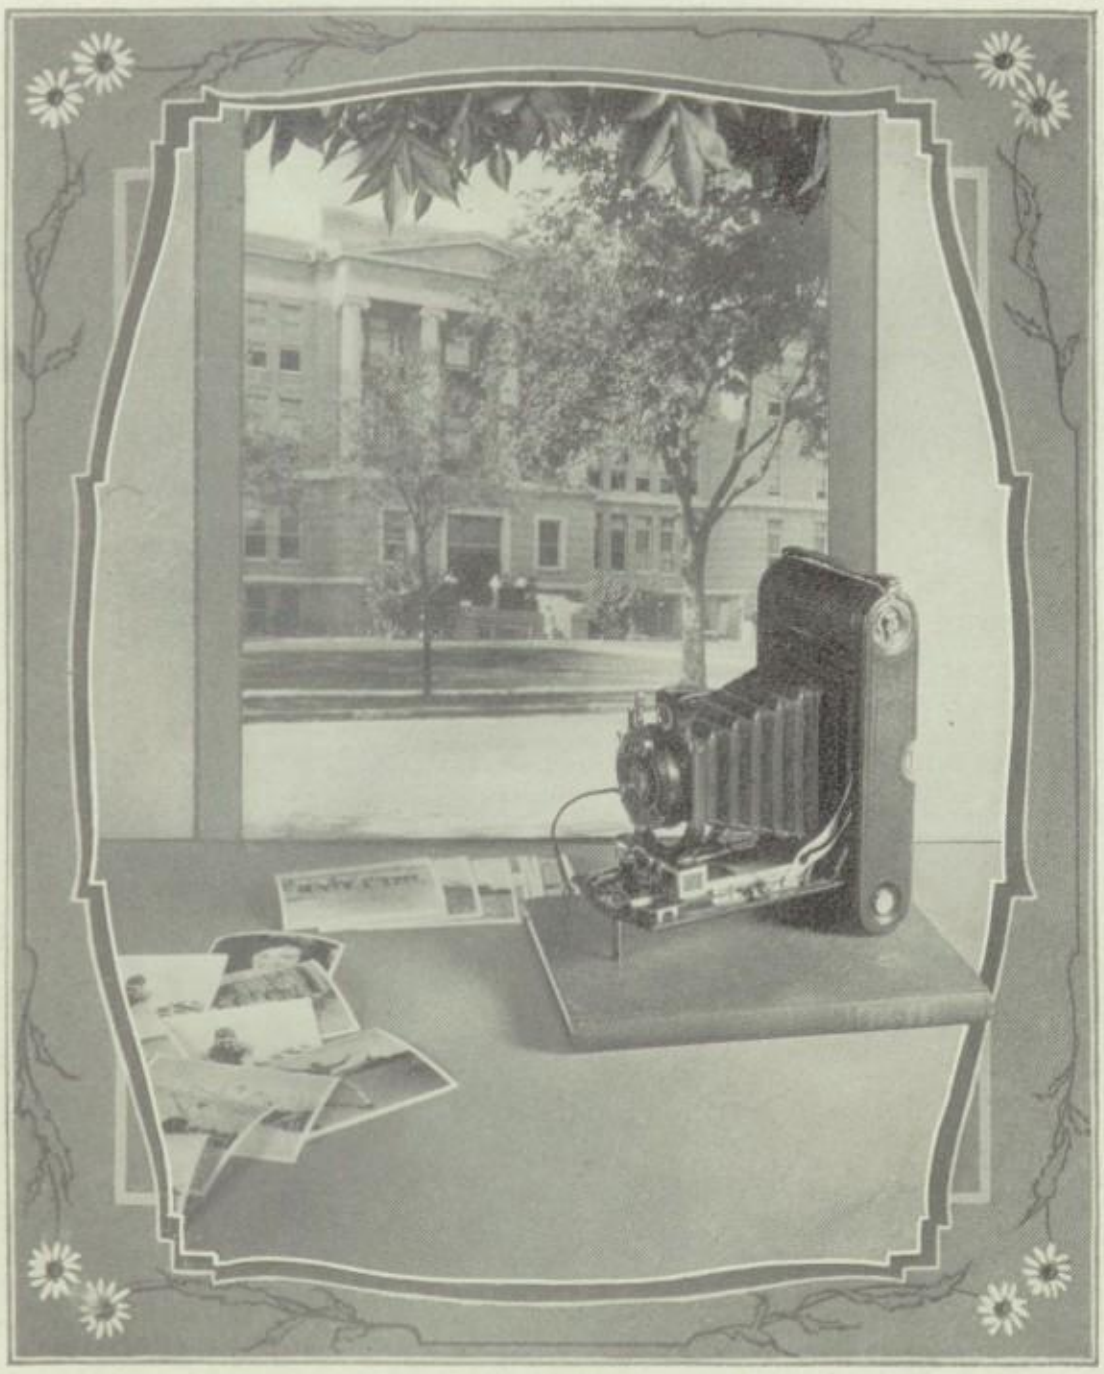
Key of Knowledge Ceremony

THE Key of Knowledge Ceremony was instituted four years ago. Twice a year the key is handed down by the 11-A class to the 11-B class. Howard Dudgeon acting as representative of the February graduating class presented the key to Valorie Shaw, the representative of the June graduating class. Floyd Huddleston acted as Master of Ceremony, introducing the representatives of the two classes.

The key was brought to this country from France and was gold-plated here. It is kept in a vault with the valuable papers of the school until the time comes for it to be presented to the oncoming graduating class.

The second handing down of the key was celebrated May 10 when Howard Chumley, June class representative, presented the key to Marcita Miller, representative of the oncoming Senior class.

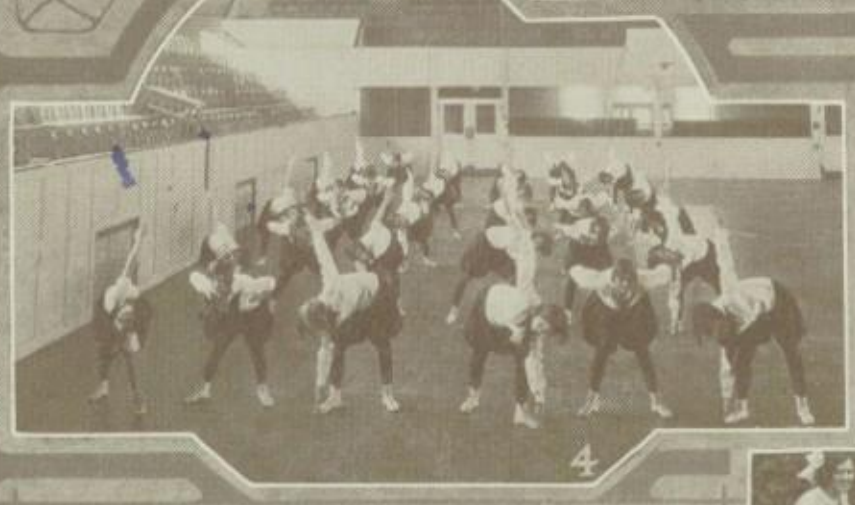
DUDGEON HUDDLESTON SHAW



Pictorially Speaking

The clock in the upper center is the master hand that directs the show; it sends lagging feet to class room or study hall and at noon hurries hungry mouths into a cool white lunch room to the left. But this clock has no control over the gleaming trophies in the case to the lower left, but time does help sometimes to decide to whom each shall go.

From dapper bandmaster, upper captain-elect of the famous Tigers, lower center, is a display of a few of the activities that do not always add pluses to grades, but do add a lot of fun to the hum-drum of school life. No, the mugs in the picture to the lower left do not contain even "sody"—this is the Boys' Glee Club singing the drinking song from the Student Prince.



The band, the Y. W. Camp, the smiling faces of basketball girls, the gym class and views from the Senior April Fool Picnic all bespeak of the varying interests of Waco Hi. We are thankful, also, that tree can't tell.

High Lights of the Year

SEPTEMBER

19. School opens today. Shivering "slimes," top-lofty Sophs and sophisticated Seniors gather in noisy groups to air summer experiences and to warn "slimes" against hard-boiled profs. Mr. Genheimer gives his annual speech of admonition, it varying slightly from the one given last year.

23. Tigers win from Belton in first game of the season.

30. Students, seriously injured while wrestling with combination locks, were rushed to hospital to find that the mental strain had been too much. Also students are found turning in ads for lost combinations to their precious locks. Season opens for mustache crop. Barbers hold indignation meetings in protest.

OCTOBER

7. First Daisy Chain of the season is greeted with nickles and thin dimes. Pandora's box, that discloses choice bits of gossip about errant eds and coeds, is avoraciously read. Girls organize pep club.

14. Mid-year class elects officers. Students rejoice at new ruling which permits them to leave the school grounds at lunch time per usual but without formality of either receiving or perceiving permission. Sixteen hundred dollars is spent for gym equipment, making it possible for ambitious students to ride a hobby-horse like President Cal: isn't this a free country?

21. School Savings bank is established to gobble up students' extra nickels and dimes. "Lend a nickle" is heard every Tuesday at third period. Latinites publish first edition of Nunc et Tunc and it proves to be anything but "punk."

28. Library receives new books for students to pay fines on which leads us to say that Mrs. McCollum ought to be a rival to Dorothy Dix —she gets to see so many love notes. Students in Senior Spanish class correspond with students in Mexico City and exchange recipes for hot tamales, we suppose.

NOVEMBER

11. Teachers are tested by novel device—a thermometer-like instrument which registers the disposition of holder. (Seems to be frame-up on defenseless pedants.) None of them break the instrument.

High Lights of the Year

Hi-Y annual Father and Son banquet is held. High school girls win in Cotton Palace dress parade.

18. Last payment made on the Baby Grand piano bought by music department on the installment plan. Daisy Chain gets new masthead. Students given whistling lesson in gym by expert. (More flats than sharps.)

28. Tigers tame Temple. Several attacks of indigestion from Thanksgiving dinner reported, but no lasting bad results.

DECEMBER

1. Separate assembly for boys and girls—much to disgust of both parties.

2. Girls receive new mirror—one big enough for three heads to be seen in at one time. Fewer shiney noses result.

9. Seniors hold meeting and decide that annual is to be dedicated to Miss Gladys Allen. Marked improvement in behavior of students as Christmas holidays approach.

18. Tigers win state championship in football.

23. Students write letters to Santy under supervision of Mr. Johnson. Girl Reserves and Boy Scouts repair toys for needy children.

26. Tigers locate Waco for all of Cleveland and the North by winning inter-sectional football game. Basketball season opens with abbreviated suits and handsome forms.

JANUARY

12. Forum and Rostra clash for debating honors, Forum winning.

19. Exams. Open season for chewing finger nails.

26. Commencement exercises held in gym—a sad and solemn event.

FEBRUARY

10. Tigers defeat Belton at basketball. Slimes enter high school for first time with fear and trembling. Mid-term prophecy appears—only a few Seniors were disappointed—of course J. R. did want to be the president of the United States.

High Lights of the Year

(CONCLUDED)

17. Seniors stage kid party. Miss Stivers receives loving cup from admiring students and faculty. Dr. Downer speaks to Latin Club on Caesar and his pet jokes.

MARCH

9. French Club gives play that baffles "parley-vousers."
16. Trio chosen for Belton contest. Basketball tournament begins. Class Play begins to commit.
23. Mr. Genheimer pays first installment on spring hat. Eight persons convicted in the supreme court of the high school. Baseball gets under way. Epidemic of spring fever sweeps school—no serious consequences.

APRIL

2. Kid party is held for sedate Seniors. Much ice cream consumed.
12. Boy tried for loitering around girls' locker.
13. Latin tournament held. Anyone knowing several words struts. Miss Osborn receives offer for partnership in Tiger drug.
20. Waco leads in Latin tournament. Three new trophy cups are added as a result and nearly cause a revolution among the trophy cups in the case. School lawn receives first hair cut of season.
27. Tennis team goes to Austin. Tigers defeat Temple in baseball, and the Girls' Glee Club "Sing a da song and bringa da cupa home."
30. Annual train of book agents beat a path to the school with varying degrees of success. Numerous students recuperate from the onslaught of the measles.

MAY

1. Pay day—all teachers extra pleasant.
3. Miss LeBow receives telegram while at school.
16. Senior exams begin grind for sheepskins.
31. Commencement exercises held for June graduates.
Annual comes out and staff and sponsors throw up their hats in glee and shout, "Nothing to do until next year."

ORGANIZATIONS

TO join or not to join is often the question with ed and coed. But often after eating imitation snakes or swallowing apparently indigestible what-nots follow some of the most delightful times imaginable. Friendship knots tied in literary society, debating society or music club are so tightly interwoven sometimes that even the most ardent adherents of Houdini would have a difficult time in untieing them.

ATHLETICS

BEHOLD the conquering hero comes! Not Lindbergh but a rival—a Waco High School athlete. Like the Pied Piper of Hamlin with his pack of followers the demi-god strides onward with a jostling crowd of maidens—and you know the rest. Football, basketball, baseball — anything but cannon ball gives prestige.

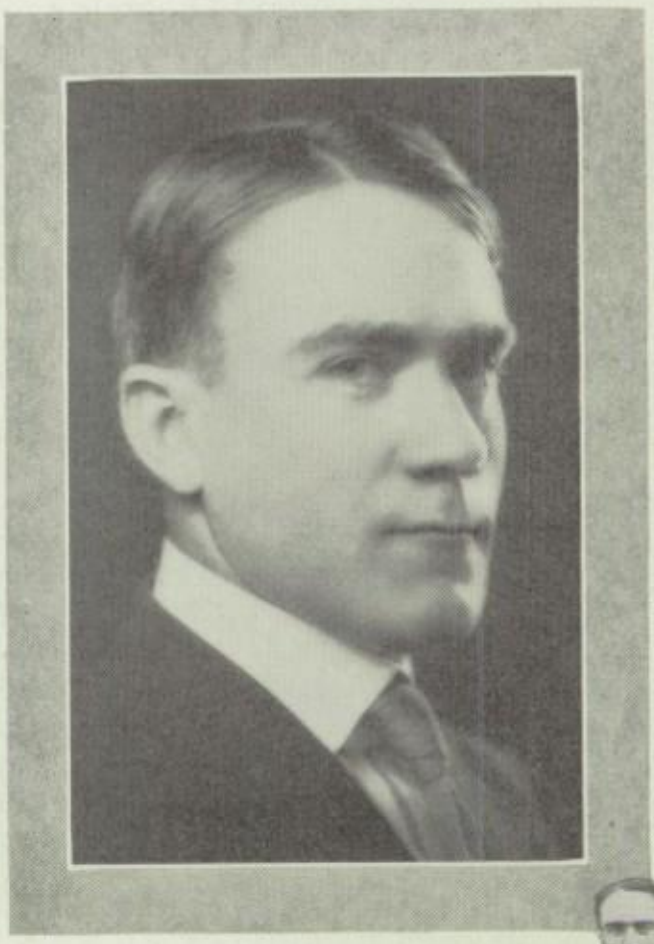
Coach Paul Tyson

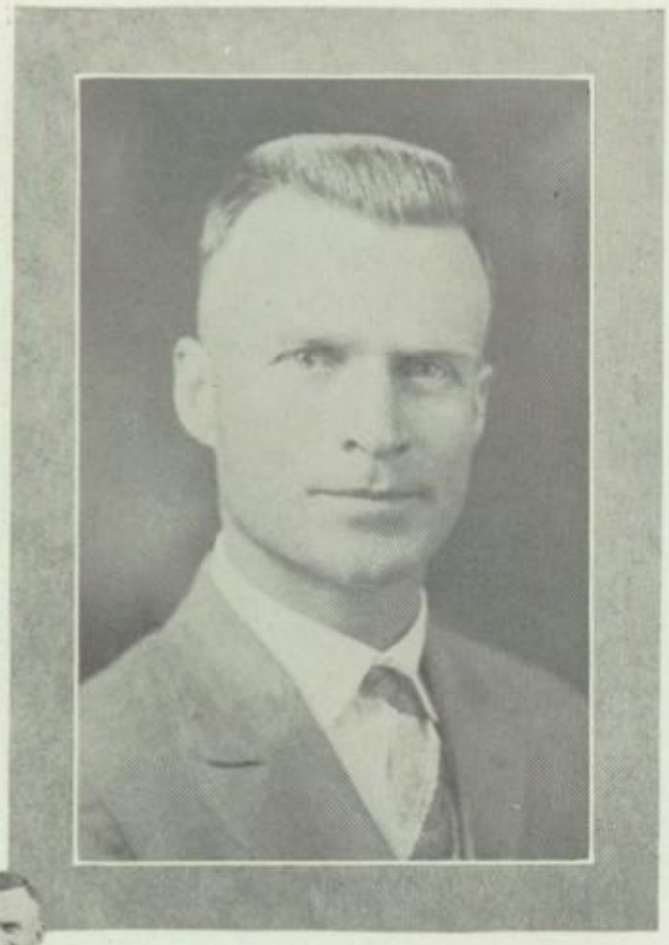


In the past six years there has been much debate on whether the Waco Hi teams have made Paul Tyson famous or whether Tyson has made the Tigers the most talked-of team in the state. Anyway, all are agreed that together they made a combination of such a rank that many have suggested that at the first of the season the silver football be awarded Tyson's team to save the awarder any inconvenience later.

Tyson is a football wizard. When it comes to handling and directing boys Tyson is the coach supreme. On the practice field he is just one of the boys pointing out their faults, in a firm, but pleasant manner. Often when he is teaching new plays and pits the fodder against the first string and the latter fail to perfect the plays he can be heard to say: "Temple would have made a touchdown then. Is that the way you are going to beat 'em?"—always using the name of the next team to be met.

Tyson is as popular with the people of Waco as he is with the school. To Wacoans there are two big things in Waco—the Amicable Building—and Paul Tyson.

Coach E. A. Bernhauser



Ernest Bernhauser is line coach of the Tiger first team and assisted by Dan Stallworth, coaches the track bunch. He gives instruction to the line in blocking and charging and judging from the way the boys show up on the gridiron he must be a six-cylinder coach. It was this year's line that began to show up first in the steady march toward the championship goal, and it was largely due to the power of the line that this year's team was able to open up gaps for the light backfield to pile up the largest score of any previous year.

This year "Bernie" and Dan are hoping to cop a number of cinderpath honors. All this spring when the weather permitted the two coaches were to be seen instructing their charges in the "gentle art" of winning honors.

No one is more popular around the school than "Bernie" with his ready smile and cheering word that helps to send many a down-hearted person on his way rejoicing. He is the unabashed friend of everybody, slimes notwithstanding.

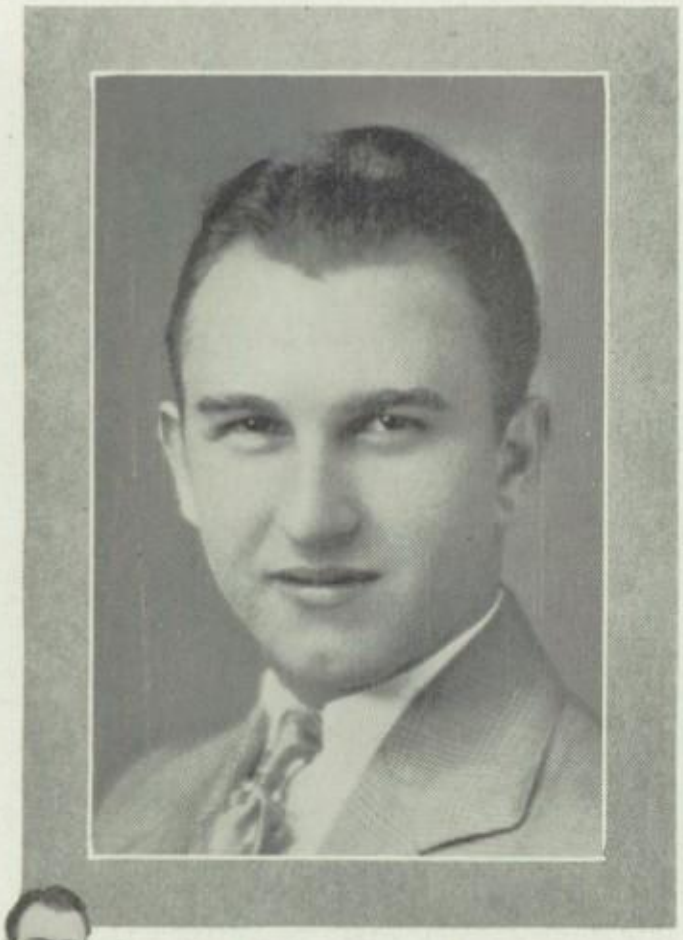
Coach Bennie Strickland

Bennie Strickland first came into the sport spotlight when he played on that undefeated 1921 Tiger football team. Before leaving Waco High he had entered her hall of fame by starring in four different fields, becoming one of the few four-letter men of the institution. Strickland was also a four-letter man at Baylor.

Coming back to his first love, Bennie is striving with might and main to put basketball on its feet in Waco High. The coach knows basketball, and has a knack for imparting this knowledge to the boys. It is more than an even bet that this excellent coach, sportsman and athlete will be turning out excellent fives in a short time.

In addition to coaching basketball Bennie is physical instructor of boys. Being director of all gym classes and coach of the all-stars in football Bennie comes in contact with practically every boy in school and is a general favorite. Last year Bennie coached baseball and his proteges won ten out of eleven games.

Coach E. A. Werner



Even though "Pop" Werner has been a member of the Waco High coaching staff only two years, he has already become a general favorite with the boys. He is assistant basketball coach, sidepartner to Bennie Strickland. At the first of the season, while the football season is yet on and Bennie is busy scouting, Werner gives the basketball boys their first instructions. Then when the basketball season opens he looks after the second-string men while Bennie is busy with the first. Werner has a magnetic personality and knows every department of the game.

The assistant coach came to Waco last year from Kansas. In his home town high school at Alden he was a four-letter man and captain of the team. Up there basketball has a decided edge on the other sports from the standpoint of popularity. In college he played on a city team that won all games.

Aside from being a coach of merit Werner is the possessor of a very fine voice. He is constantly in demand as an entertainer and he gives freely of his talent.

Footprints of a Tiger

The 1927 Season

For the third consecutive time the Tigers won the interscholastic championship of Texas, thus establishing a record for consecutive championships in this state. The Tigers of '27 are touted as the best that Paul Tyson has ever put out, and alongside that they have set a world's record for one season. The Tigers of '27 have the distinction of being the first Waco High team to play and win an intersectional game.

Beginning the season with seven letter men, Glover, Pierce, Hill, Leyendecker, Meers and Swift, a highly successful season was anticipated. Teams from Belton, Georgetown, Itasca, Main High of San Antonio, Marlin and Brackenridge of San Antonio were met and overwhelmed. The Itasca Cats and Marlin Bulldogs were the first to feel the Tigers' claws.

BELTON

THOMAS GLOVER, Captain of the Tigers, state and international champions, was picked by many as all-state quarterback and captain.

Glover is the expert "Spin" man who wiggled, twisted and squirmed his way into the hearts of all football fans of Texas. By his superhuman efforts, he was able to put over the winning touchdown in the Abilene game. All Texas was proud of that uncanny offence led by the sensational Captain Glover in the Latin-Hi game.

GAINING momentum, the Tigers found themselves again battling Allen Academy, then the Little Aggies of Bryan sending them both home under the small end of a heavy score. Leaving their lair the Tigers journeyed to Austin to play in the Memorial Stadium. They took the day by 56 points. The first time the Tigers were scored on was at Temple when they battled their way to a 27-to-7 victory over their time-honored rivals. Jefferson Davis felt the invincible claws of the Tigers next, then Sherman. Finally the Tigers met in a championship fray with Abilene and defeated them to the tune of 21 to 14. The intersectional tilt with Latin Hi of Cleveland rounded out a perfect season with the Tigers taking the lead in a 44-to-12 landslide.

GEORGETOWN

MADISON PRUITT, Captain-elect of the 1928 Tigers, is one of the best ends that ever stepped on a gridiron to represent the Gold and White. Pruitt was picked as an all-state man in 1926 and again in 1927.

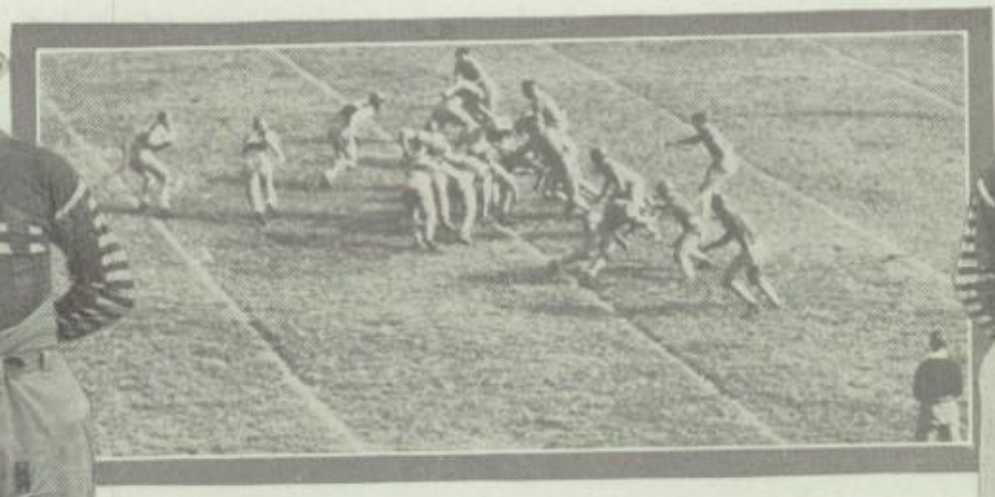
Should this brilliant performer win all-state bench in 1928 he will have set a record for making all-state teams. Madison had a knee injured in the Bryan game, so all fans doff their hats to the boy who won an all-state bench with one good leg and one bad one.

ITASCA

PLAYING their third game of the season with the Itasca Wampus Cats the Tigers took them under for a good drubbing to the tune of 59 to 0. The Wacoans did not seem to mind the wet, heavy field. The playing condition probably kept the score down.

The teams that Tyson put on the field showed a marked improvement and the work of "Son" McClellan, former Itasca star, was beautiful to behold, indeed. Tiner showed up well in this game as did Pierce. The Gilliland brothers were the main attraction and especially the big end who proved so adept at snatching passes.

Tyson had not scouted the Cats and went into the game without knowing their real strength. Not scouting Itasca was favored by Tyson as a means of training the Tigers to figure out plays for themselves. The Cats gave the Waco aggregation a lot of skull practice in breaking up passes.



CHARLES LEYENDECKER has an uncanny ability to break through and get his man, making life miserable for opposing halfbacks. It's no news that he is all-state.

CALVIN SWIFT is as hard as nails and is said by many to be the best center Waco has produced. Every paper in Texas ranked him as all-state center.

MAIN AVENUE (San Antonio)

THE Tigers journeyed down to Tamale Town on October 14, and the Tigers were lucky to come off with a 35-to-0 win considering the fact that the entire team was playing miserable ball, while the Main Avenue Maroons were fighting like demons. The ground was as hard as cement and the Wacoans suffered terribly and fumbled often.

Pierce was a sensation in that game, getting off a 70-yard punt and making several long runs. Glover was the slashing leader who gained more yardage than any other person that day. Ox Clark in the line was an outstanding star.

The game with the big blue team opened the conference season just right for the Tigers. Many Tiger rooters journeyed to San Antonio with the band to see that the bacon was brought home in the proper manner. The game was played on Main's own home "lot."

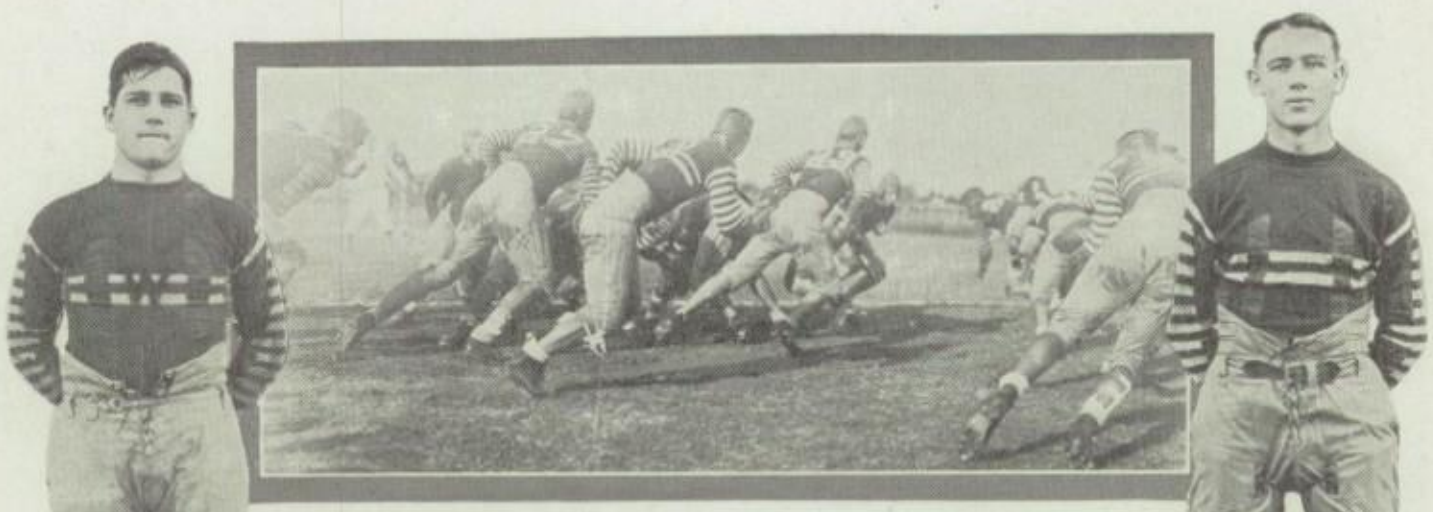
TOM HILL, the idol of Chalk Bluff, got a poor start during the 1927 season, but when he found himself he turned out to be a fighting madman.

KENNETH CLARK is brilliant, fast and aggressive. He was one of the principal main-stays of the line. He likewise, received state mention.

MARLIN

WORKING as a unit and with clock-like timing the Tigers won their fifth straight victory from the Marlin Bulldogs by piling up an adding-machine score of 107 to 0. The game was played before a large crowd that was stunned at the magnificent team work of the Tysonites. Almost three teams were used by the coaches. "Oochie" Earle played a whale of a game but received lime burns that kept him out of the Brackenridge game. While the Marlinites were sufficiently overwhelmed they played a plucky game to the last whistle.

The 107 talley piled up by the Tigers was the largest score ever run up on the Bulldogs. They took their loss in true sportsmanlike fashion, fighting with a plucky spirit until they were free to take to the much-earned showers. When Marlin began to pass in the first part of the game, the Waco fans became sericusly annoyed. The Marlin rooting section became a mass of frenzied rooters, and even when they saw that the Bulldogs were overwhelmingly outclassed they stayed by the team with lusty yelling.



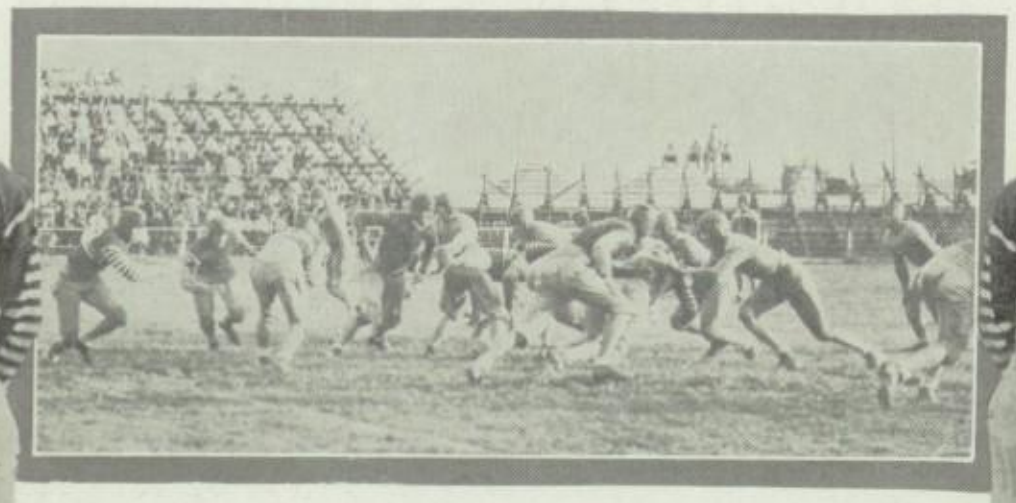
DAVE MEERS, giant guard, accomplished wonders with his huge body. Many, many times this all-state mention took out his own man and got another before his opponent reached him.

SEARS EARLE was just "getting right" as the season closed. He could play any position and state mention followed of course.

BRACKENRIDGE (San Antonio)

TOUGH luck completely smothered the Tigers during the Brackenridge game that was played on the Cotton Palace gridiron. They marched the ball down to the Eagle goal on numerous occasions only to lose the ball by fumbling. The 30-to-0 score was begun when Tyson told the boys a thing or two during the half. The defense that Tyson set for the Eagles was good enough to keep them from getting even close to the Tiger goal. Pruitt and Leyendecker were continually throwing Eagle backs for losses. "Son" McClellan's punt returning made him a marked man.

The Eagles brought a highly touted team to Waco that was keyed to a high pitch and this pitch was in evidence until the beginning of the second half, then because of too much Tiger, the pitch gradually decreased. The fumbling of the Tigers at critical moments caused the mentor no little worry during the scoreless half. However, the score does not tell how thoroughly the Eagles were plucked for not a single first down was chalked up in their favor.



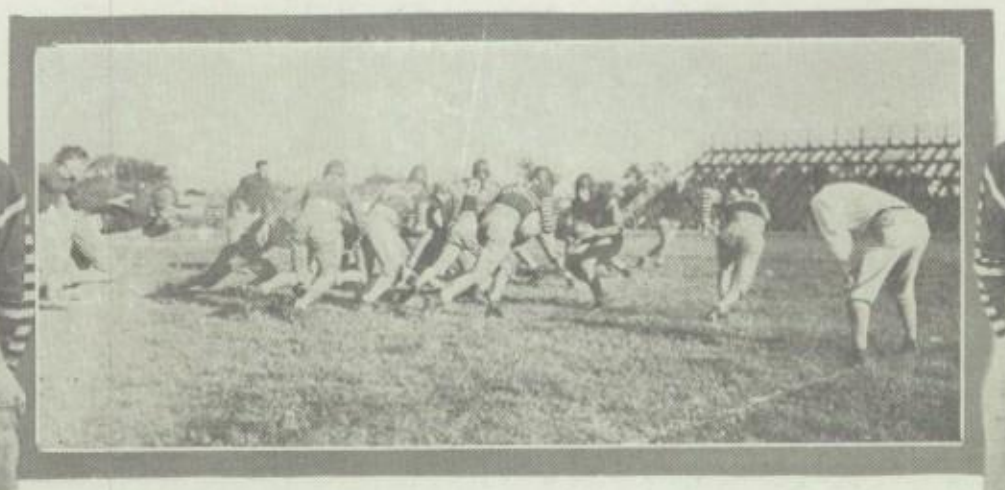
MAURICE PIERCE has the distinction of getting all-state mention as an end in 1926, then in 1927 as a backfield man. He was chosen as all-state fullback.

WENDALL MCCLELLAN—fleet as a deer cool as a Texas norther and smart as a whip—that is the impression one gets of this brilliant Tiger safety man.

ALLEN ACADEMY

GOING out of their class to get some real competition the Tigers easily outclassed the big Allen Academy team, coached by Puny Wilson, by a 27-to-0 score. The Wacoans started off with a rush and completely stunned the Allen Academy Lions. The passing of Spencer was a real threat to the goal line and the Tiger backs. The most sensational work of the game came when Allen got on the Wacoans' four-yard line. After holding the big boys for three downs, Pruitt broke through and scattered a few Lions to throw Wallace for a row of ten pins. Glover and Pierce were the big scoring aces of this hectic struggle.

The Tigers' first touchdown came when Pierce heaved a 25-yard pass to Mason, who was in the open. The second touchdown was made when Glover called a spin play on the first down and the line responded by opening up a hole big enough to drive a span of mules through. Before the half had ended the Tigers had scored two more touchdowns which ended the scoring for the rest of the fray.



VERNON HORNE, cousin to Jack Horne, is fast as a streak and once in a broken field is hard to stop. He is due for a huge '28 season.

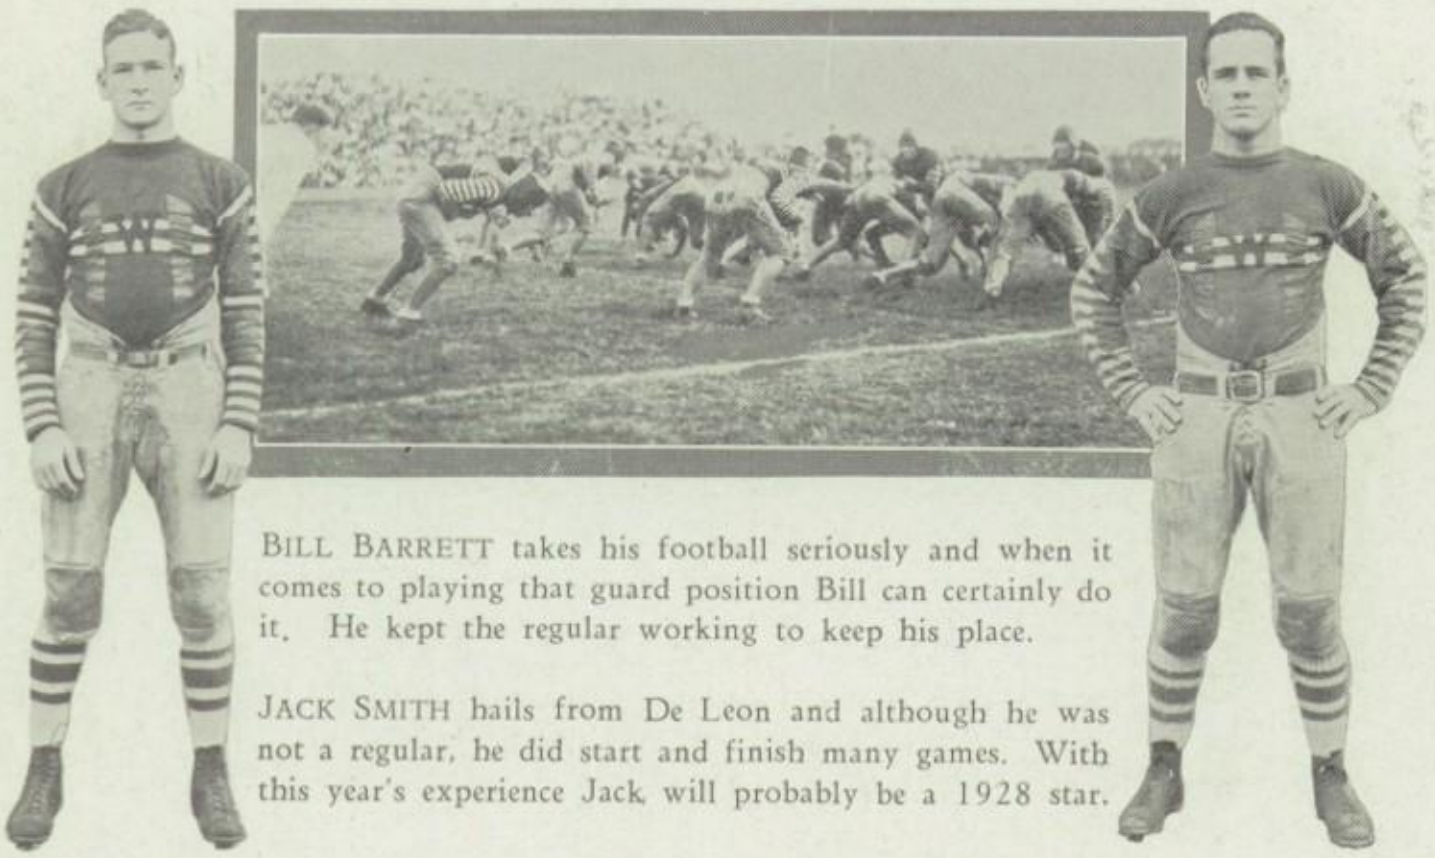
LESLIE SNELL, at the beginning of the season, was almost "Cannon Fodder"—then he was—then he developed a side step and assured himself of a '28 place.

Leslie B. Snell

BRYAN

THE Armistice Day program was complete because the Little Aggies of Bryan came to Waco with a highly-touted team only to go down under a mass of Gold and White by the score of 46 to 0. As followers of the game predicted the game was a hummer. The Little Aggie aggregation started well by blocking a punt on Waco's 20-yard line but that is as far as they got because things began to happen. Glover had a sidestep that day that left all staring. "Sheriff" Tiner and Vernon Horne had a big day at the expense of the Little Aggies for both continually tore off long gains. Dansby was the outstanding star for Bryan.

Tyson's golden machine was functioning in a manner to delight the hearts of some 4,000 Tiger followers who were taking advantage of the holiday to celebrate in proper style. Never was the game in doubt after the first touchdown had been made, but things did not look so rosy when Pierce's punt was blocked and covered by a little Aggie man on the Wacoans' 20-yard line.



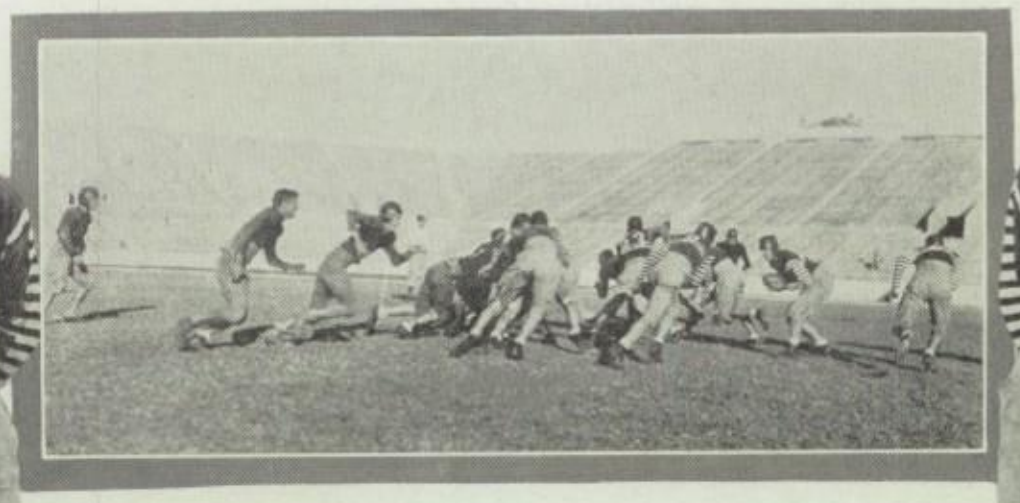
BILL BARRETT takes his football seriously and when it comes to playing that guard position Bill can certainly do it. He kept the regular working to keep his place.

JACK SMITH hails from De Leon and although he was not a regular, he did start and finish many games. With this year's experience Jack will probably be a 1928 star.

AUSTIN

SPRINKLING the vast memorial stadium at Austin with some eight thousand people the Tigers proceeded to pour it on the weak Austin High team by the astounding score of 56 to 0. However, the passing machine that Kit Carson had built was one that dealt no little misery to the Tysonites. Chote and "Stubby" Lewis were the stars for Austin while Vernon Horne grabbed all the spotlight and glory from the rest of the Tigers. Horne made runs consistently from 10 to 60 yards. Snell closed the game with a beautiful 45-yard run for a touchdown.

A special train carried the rabid Tiger followers to the Capital City where a parade was staged upon arrival. Preceded by the Waco High band in new gold and white uniforms, the Waco rooters marched up Congress Avenue to announce their arrival. One of the features of the game was a stunt by the Austin High girls' pep squad when it marched out on the field in red and white uniforms and spelled out an A with confetti.



ROBERT KELLEY, gradually improving throughout the season, stamped himself as a potential candidate for a regular winter next season.

ODIE SULLINGER was the understudy to Earl and Pruitt, but he out-played many opponents during the season. He will return next year.

TEMPLE

JUST as often as the season rolls around the Tigers are forced to play a game with those ferocious Wildcats of Temple.. This time they met at Temple on historic Woodson Park before some 10,000 people. The game was a nerve-racking one, filled with fumbled punts, perfect blocking, perfect interference and perfect sportsmanship.

Twenty-six to seven—that's the score for that hard-earned victory. Pierce bent the Temple line but never did it completely break. Snell was "hot" that day and made numerous nice runs. Weathers scored the first touchdown on the Tigers when he scooped up a fumbled punt and raced to the goal line.

During the game the Wild Cats tried end runs, spin plays, line bucks, trick plays and lateral passes and every other kind of play but they were only able to net three first downs, two by the aerial route. Probably the greatest thrill of the game came when Pruitt connected with a 45-yard pass heaved by Pierce. Waco's game with Temple always proves to be one of the greatest of the season's thrillers.

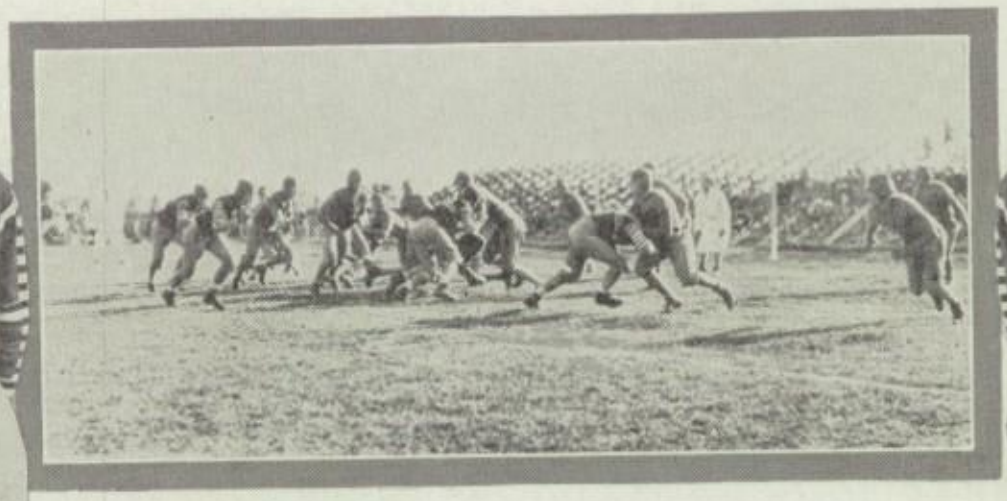
FELIX NELSON can play any position in the line and wherever Tyson decides to use him next season all feel assured that his position will be well taken care of.

EDWIN HANDER, the tall, rangy blonde, plays the center position. He will return next season and should prove to be just the man to fill the place.

HOUSTON

A WEEK later the Tigers asserted their supremacy over the Houston representatives in a most brutal 124-to-0 fashion. Led by the brilliant Captain Glover the entire squad kept pounding away until the largest score of the season was chalked up. The Houstonites resorted to aerial attack, but to no avail. Seventy and 80-yard runs in this bi-district contest were "just a breeze." "Son" McClellan refused to be downed until he brought the ball back to where it was punted from or for a touchdown. Frey, Houston's all-state candidate, played a creditable game.

The touchdowns came in bewildering rapidity and the scorers had trouble keeping count of nineteen touchdowns, and eleven scores after touchdowns: a more serious defeat, no doubt, than the Bayou City boys expected. The game was played under ideal weather conditions before an enthusiastic crowd. The Houston band far outclassed their team and made the Waco "tooters" look to their laurels.



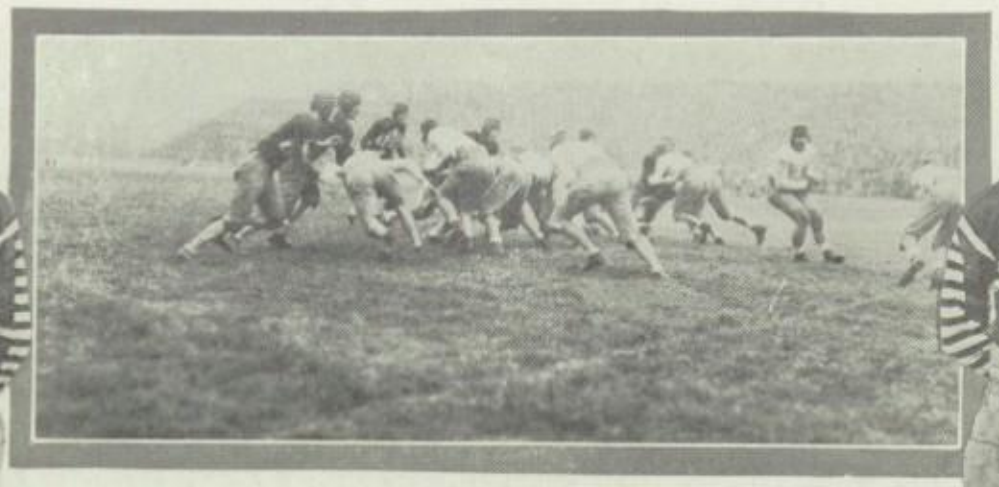
FRANK WALLACE is a good trainer and will make a valuable man for the '28 squad. He is an excellent pass receiver among other assets.

JOHN B. NUNN, quarterback substitute, although he lacked experience, directed the team in a flawless fashion. He will be a regular quarter next year.

SHERMAN

EXHIBITING the best form of the season, the Tigers won the semi-final game with Sherman before the State Championship by a 59-to-0 score. Although the field was heavy the two teams used by Tyson were almost unbeatable. A Sherman back started things when he brought the opening kickoff to the 40-yard line. Pierce, on the first offensive play for Waco, slipped through a well-timed hole and ran 80 yards for a touchdown. The short passes used by Tyson's men were very successful. Dave Meers and Calvin Swift were the defensive stars of the day.

By the time the Tigers had reached this rung in the football ladder the Waco fans were used to tallying in big numbers, and strange to say the bigger the score the better they liked the game. Even after a heavy score had been made they were asking for more. Piling up a 59-point gain in the semi-final mixup was joy to the twelfth man.



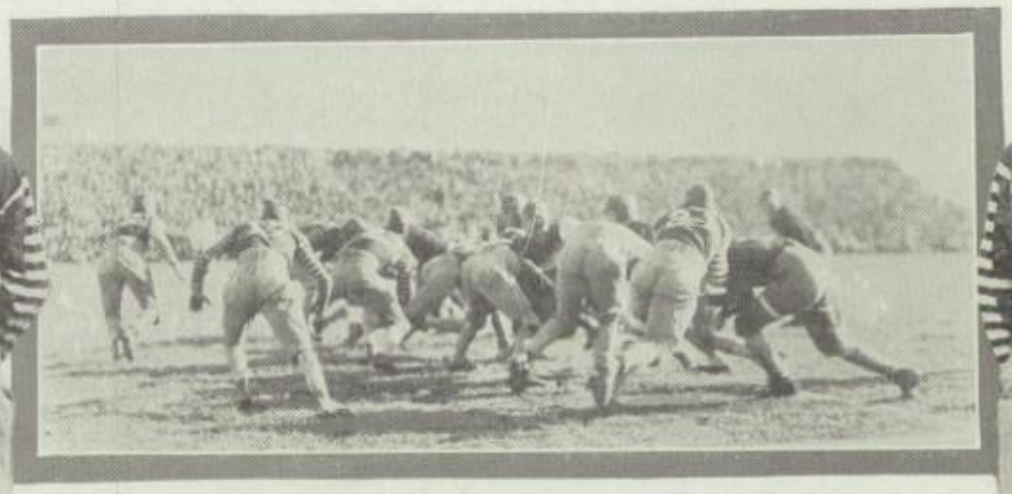
AUBREY BUTTS has the build and makings of a splendid player. He is going to be "in there" fighting next season and much can be expected of him.

WILTON SULLINGER, playing his first and last year on the squad, was the understudy to McClellan. He was also sport scribe.

ABILENE

BATTERING and fighting their way for thirteen straight victories the Tigers won their way into the finals this year for the sixth consecutive time. For the second time in as many years the final game was played on the Cotton Palace gridiron before a crowd of thousands. The two teams that met that day were the best ever put out by either school and the 21-to-14 score shows the real battle it was. "Son" McClellan slipped over the first touchdown for the Tigers while Andrews crossed over to sneak a pass, then go on down the field to score Abilene's first touchdown. Passing was Abilene's chief attack while the running attack made Waco look formidable.

Pierce, plunging through the line and outwitting the secondary defense, gave the Tigers a seven-point lead. Then the Abilene players, thoroughbreds of West Texas, tied the game in a manner to warm the hearts of everyone from the Metropolis of the West Texas plains. The fans were now a mass of excited humanity cheering the gold and white on to greater effort.



OTHA TINER is fast and has a football heart. He will be a valuable cog in the team of next season. He saw much service last year.

HOWARD DUDGEON won a place on the team due to his stick-to-it-iveness. He could run interference with the best of them, and had it not been for a wealth of material he would have been a regular.

ABILENE (Continued)

CAPTAIN GLOVER, with sensational brilliance, scored the winning touchdown when there were only two minutes to go. Messrs. Pruitt, Leyendecker, Hill and Snell all played a whale of a game. In one respect this game resembled the game of 1922 when the same teams were contending for state honors because at the end of the contest Waco had the ball in approximately the same spot as it was in Ft. Worth. However, they differed greatly for the outcome of the '22 game depended on dropkicks, but in the '27 battle the score was told by touchdowns.

Mere figures cannot adequately tell the story of this memorable championship classic. The Abilene team was one of the most beautiful that has ever kicked up the turf on the Cotton Palace gridiron, and Tommy Glover's aggregation was an inspired eleven with a firm determination to uphold the tradition of the Cotton Palace gridiron by refusing to be beaten on this time-honored field.

FENTON SLAUGHTER, playing for the first time last year, made an excellent showing. He is expected to develop into a first-rate player.

BUTLER KING served faithfully as a Cannon Fodder in 1926, but in 1927 he was given a new gold jersey. Butler has the distinction of being one of the fastest men on the squad.

LATIN (Cleveland)

THE Latin Cathedral High School of Cleveland issued a challenge throughout the land to meet any high school and a few weeks later they had been accepted, played and beaten by a score of 44 to 12, by those "Fighting Tigers of Waco High." The game was played on the Cotton Palace field before a crowd of 20,000 people. The offensive drives of both teams were sensational and highly developed so as to be a credit to any college team. Glover, McClellan and Pierce were the talk of Texas because of the manner in which they performed in this intersectional tilt. Leyendecker, Hill and Swift were the defensive heroes of this never-to-be forgotten game.

When the game with Cleveland was assured all banquets in honor of the Tigers were postponed and the boys willingly stayed in training for the glory of Waco High and the state of Texas. To a man the team voted to give the proceeds of the game to the coaches and notwithstanding the fact that the season was over they donned their uniforms with the usual fighting spirit.

EMMETTE WALLACE displayed a fighting quality throughout the season and every member of the squad admired his pluck and determination. He will return for another season.

PHIL CRAVEN, during 1927, absorbed much pigskin knowledge and it will not be surprising to see him alternating at quarterback in 1928.

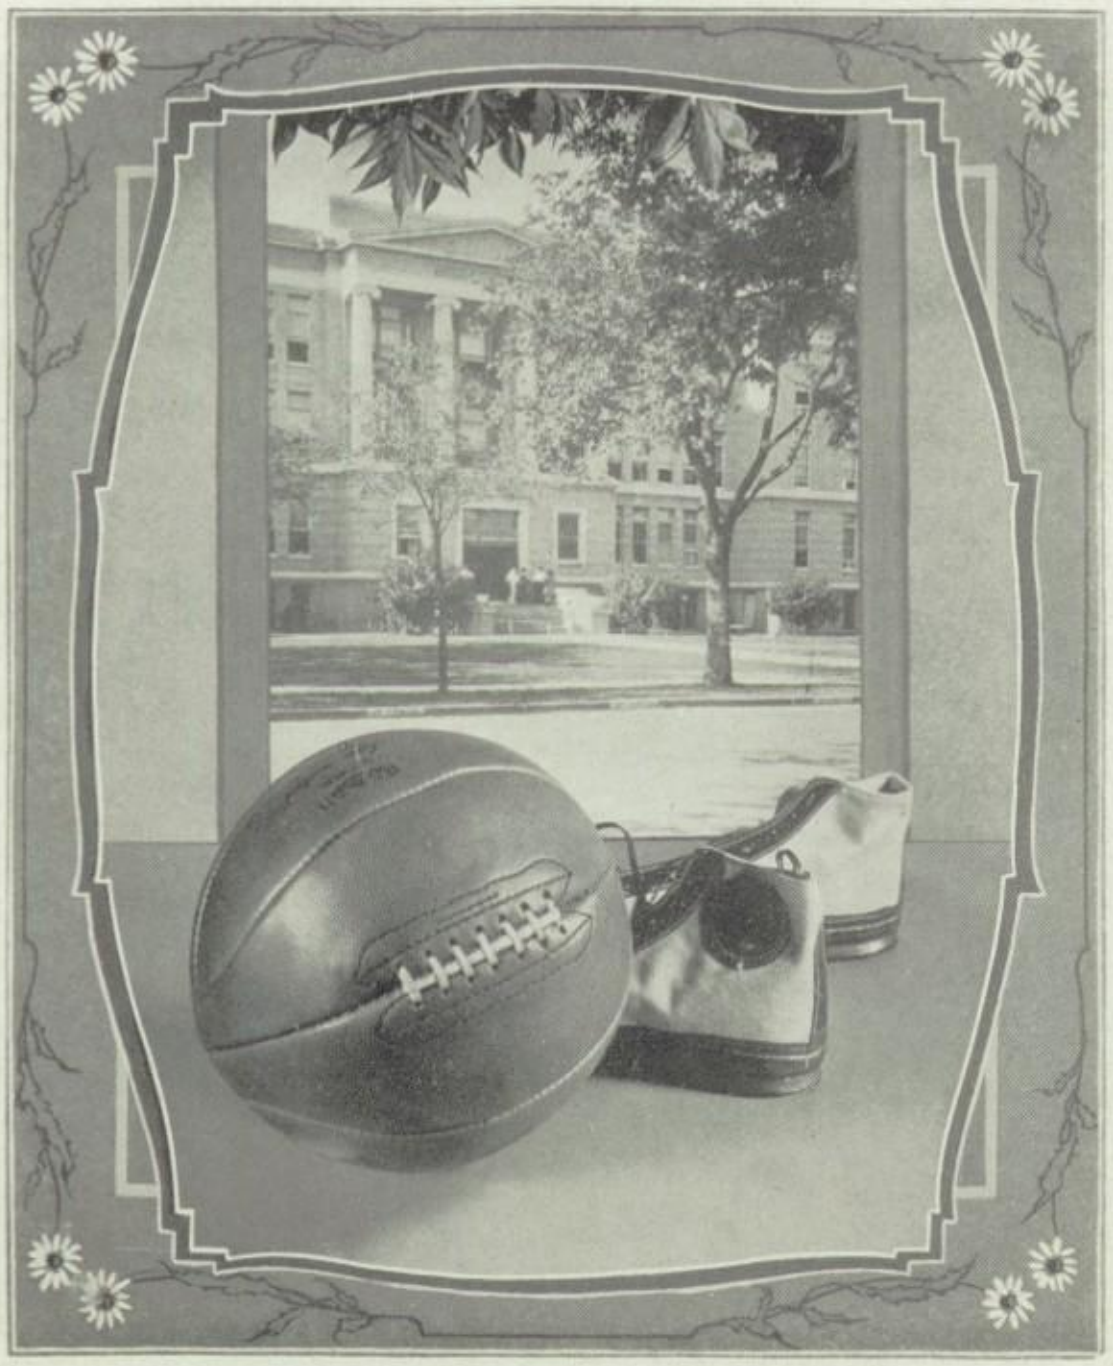
JACK BUCKLER was not a regular, but he is as good a player as any average high school can boast of. Jack can punt and combined with that he has an artful sidestep.

NEWTON JENKINS, although only a sub, contributed his part to making the season a success for the Tigers. Only his lack of experience kept him from lettering.

Gaze upon our football heroes of 1927 when they were in their pinafore days—and easy to handle, maybe. Each juvenile carries the number he bore on his football sweater during the season.



BASKETBALL

Basketball

The Season

Coach Bennie Strickland was hampered at the beginning of the season by the lack of experienced material but he was very successful in the team he produced. The team had an excellent defense, and could pass well, but somehow when they needed baskets in a game they could not make them. The Tigers played their best game against the Athens Hornets, State Champions, '27. The best crowd of the season attended that game and the Hornets were fortunate to win.

Pierce Sloan Owen

Basketball

Maurice Pierce

Pierce, captain of the club and the outstanding star, played guard. He was as smart as a whip, a good floor worker and had an excellent eye for the basket. He was high scorer for the season. He starred in every game, but his best game was against the strong Athens quintet. Waco High loses a great athlete in Pierce.

Harold Sloan

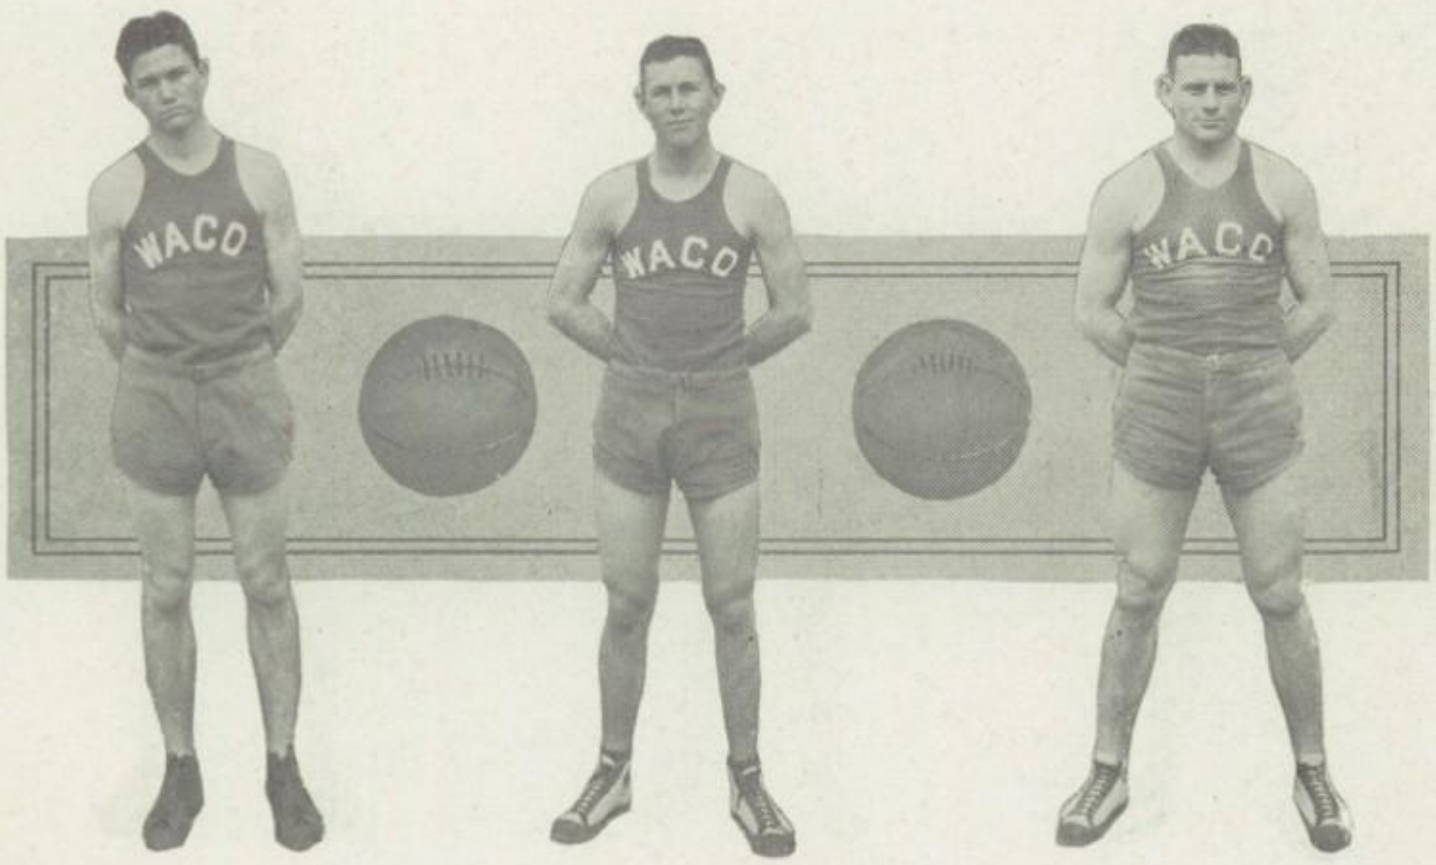
"Dizzy" Sloan, though not a regular, saw service in almost every game. He was fast, aggressive and a splendid guard. This was his last year on the team due to graduation.

Jack Owen

Owen, forward on the club, was teased about being the handsomest player on the team. He had a keen eye for shooting goals and could dribble and pass with equal proficiency.

John Wesley Denton

Denton, captain-elect for the 1929 season, played forward on the club. He had an off season, but at that he was always making some unusual play. He is a natural born athlete and should make a splendid captain next year.



Denton Nelson Pruitt

Basketball

Felix Nelson

Nelson played center on the team and next to Captain Pierce held scoring honors on the team. He was a hard worker and could shoot accurate goals. He will be back next year and ought to be an asset as he knows every department of the game.

Madison Pruitt

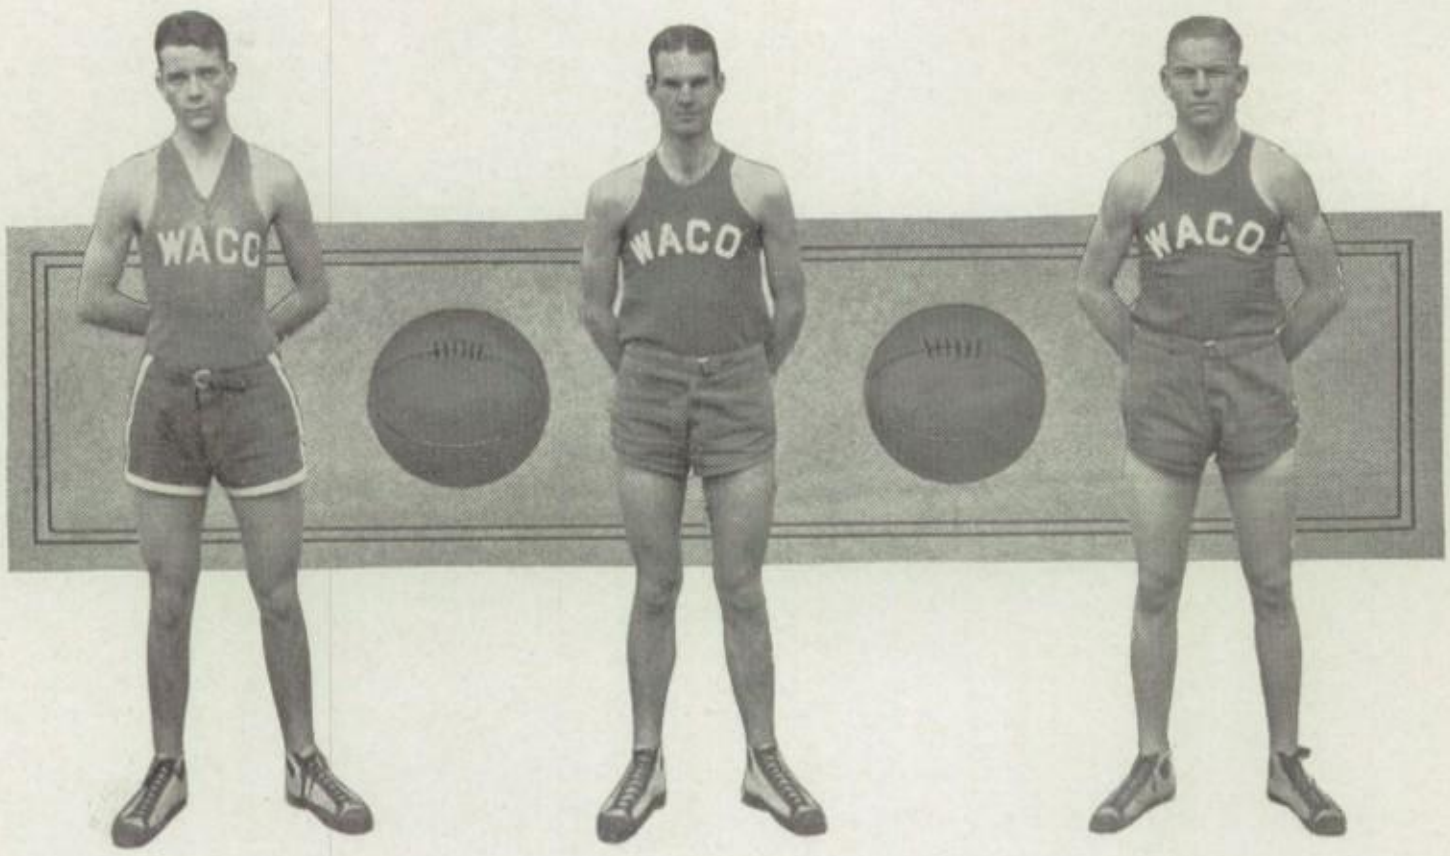
Pruitt played forward and filled his position with honors. Pruitt's greatest asset was his defensive ability. He could guard as no other forward on the team and was very good at breaking up his opponents' passes. He will return next fall.

Buddy Chenoweth

Buddy was Jack Owen's closest rival for being the best-looking boy on the team. Although Buddy was ineligible at the first of the season he soon became eligible and made a creditable showing.

James Loughridge

James was a guard, who worked hard all season and saw service in every game. He is expected to hit his real stride next season and become a star.



Chenoweth Loughridge Tiner

Basketball

Otha Tiner

Tiner was a good goal shooter in spite of his size. This was his first season on the team and he proved to be a capable forward. He was fast and in there fighting to the last. He will be back next year, and much is expected of him.

Dave Goddard

Dave started the season at forward, but when changed to standing guard he came into his own and proved to be a star. He was fast, quick-thinking and could shoot goal. In track he broke the 100-yard dash record of Texas.

John Carlisle

Carlisle, center of the club and the laziest man on the team, acquired the nickname of "Speedy." He had an eye for the basket and could pass with uncanny accuracy. He won't be back.

Emmette Wallace

Wallace was aggressive and was a good guard. He had lots of pep and got acquainted with hard playing from the start and kept it up. He was strongest on defense work.

OTHER SPORTS

Baseball

LAST year, due to the brilliance of Captain Clifton Allen, Captain-elect Pierce and Jake Wilson, the Tigers made an unusually good showing. It was Coach Bennie Strickland's first year as coach and he proved that he was master of every department of the diamond.

The Tigers played eleven games, six at home, winning all staged on the home lot. The Tigers played five games out of the city and won four of this group.

The leading hitter of the team was Captain Allen, who piled up a percentage of .395. Pierce and Meadows both made three home runs. Milton Teague was the star pitcher and one of the eight leading hitters. With Pierce as captain the Tigers are expecting to have another successful season.

Track

The Season

THE 1928 track team was one of the best balanced teams Waco High has ever produced. With the return of McClellan, Goddard, Boswell, King, Barrett and Pruitt the team began work early. In addition to Coach E. A. Bernhauser, Dan Stallworth, who knows every department of the cinder path, was added to the coaching staff.

In the district meet Waco won high place and later at A. & M. brought home nine gold medals and two silver ones.

As the annual goes to press the team is journeying to Austin to compete for more honors.

The Team

BILL BARRETT—Broad jump, relay, 120 high hurdles

Second Row: GODDARD, SLOAN, TINER, KING, PIERCE, BARRETT, MCCLELLAN, BOSWELL

Tennis

ALTHOUGH tennis is not the leading sport of Waco High School its popularity has increased more the past year than ever before. There were fourteen entries in the singles and six in the doubles in the tryouts for school representation. Marshall McCleary won over Wimbert Bradley to represent Waco High. Doubles were won by Wimbert Bradley and Marshall McCleary. Meeting Marlin in finals, McCleary won the singles and Bradley and McCleary won the doubles, earning the right to go to the state meet at Austin. As the annual goes to press the netters are journeying to Austin to contest for state honors.

Singles players included J. B. Bumgardner, I. A. Goldstein, Carroll Sturgis, Wimbert Bradley, Marshall McCleary, Walter Lee Wood, James Harrison, Henry Kaulback, Jack Peters, Thomas Oliver, Donald Drake, George Wheeler, Edwin Hill and Elmer Hawkins.

Double teams were Goldstein and Sturgis, McCleary and Bradley, Bumgardner and Hawkins, Peters and Oliver, Harrison and Kaulback and Wood and Drake.

"ALL CHAINED UP"

IT takes a little fun now and then to keep us all from taking life too seriously, and the chains of memory hold longer when there is a little foolishness to weld them together.

The Will of Our Class

We, THE SENIOR CLASS, of the City of Waco, County of McLennan, State of Texas, being of unsound mind and defective memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills, bequests and devises of what every nature by us made.

First, we give, devise and bequeath to Mr. Buddy M. Hawes, room 329 To Have and To Hold; Second, we give, devise and bequeath to Sarah Harrison, Ohuita Sanderford's Pepsodent smile; to Otha Tiner, Dave Meers' pompousness; to the future traffic cops, attractive law-breakers; to Mr. E. A. Bernhauser, another student as satisfactory as well —a certain brunette; to Miss Cobby de Stivers, a gazoo; to Lila Green, Nell Colgin's blonde tresses; to Prof. E. Douglas Johnson a couple of flunking students to protect himself; to all thirsty souls the Tiger Drug; to Mrs. Billie Smith, an automatic press for squeezing information out of people; to Marcita Miller, Helen Joe Talley's dignity; to some extra-ordinary cook with brunette locks, Mr. Prinzing; to Mr. E. T. Genheimer, a sure cure for worry and a Carnegie medal; to Mr. Robert Weaver a green tie; to W. (Ha!) McKinney a whole covey of garter snakes so he will have one for every pocket; to Miss Gladys Allen all of our split infinitives and dangling particles; to Miss Helen Wildish, Miss Martha Leuschner and Miss Carrie Futrell the well-worked-out Senior fourth dimension; to Mrs. W. L. K. Trotter another initial; to Lollie Lee Cook, Ruth Lovelace's quietness; R. C. Berkeley's heart-breaking habit to C. W. Davis; Dorothy Gough bequeaths her art of talking to Mary Lou Griffis; all of the Latin ponies and their stables to the oncoming Latinites; the gym cuts we give to the slimes, and our worn-out chewing wax; Henrietta Hickman gets Kathryn Acree's assembly seat; to Aline Aynesworth some of the troubles of the Daisy Chain; to Jean Lyster, a proof against mash notes; to the Waco High School, a class as wonderful as we are; to the Tigers, another championship.

Third, we do hereby constitute and appoint said Buddy Hawes the executor of this our last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof, We have hereunto set our hand and seal this first day of May, R. F. D., Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-eight.

(Seal) THE SENIOR CLASS OF WACO HIGH SCHOOL.

Signed, sealed, and published and declared by the said Senior Class, as and for its last will and testament, in the presence of us, who at their request, in their presences, scribed our names as attesting witnesses to said instrument.

MISS HATTIE ZURFLUH,
J. C. HUDDLESTON.

Leap Year Club

THE latest club and one of the most exclusive that the school will ever have since it is in order only every fourth year, is the Leap-Year Club. The text books now being studied are "It" and "How to Keep That School Girl Complexion." The club has a great following, or does a great following, to put it correctly. Following is the organization:

My Most Embarrassing Moment

Bill Barrett said that he was never embarrassed.

When she broke a date with one ed and later saw him while she was dating with his rival was Gladys Caple's most embarrassing moment.

Dave Meers—When the peas slipped off his knife.

Sears Earle—When he was forced to break a date having made two for the same occasion.

Jack Owen said that he has never felt so "non compos mentis" as when he was presented before assembly as a basketball player.

Le Grande suffered keenly when he was mistaken for Bennie Strickland by Miss Daniel while he was passing through the hall.

Miss Jessie Compere said that she has never been so embarrassed as she was the first time she was asked a question she could not answer.

Virginia Stratton—When Son arrived and she had not put the last touch of powder to her nose.

Kathryn Acree's most obnoxious moment was when she was called to the desk in study hall to find that the teacher meant the girl just back of her.

Billy Staton testifies that he has never lived as happily since his best girl saw him dub a golf ball.

Faith Ainsworth wouldn't tell her most embarrassing moment and Calvin Swift said he couldn't.

John Ed has never looked the same since someone said casually, "Isn't that Billy Staton's suit you have on?"

Ted Morse underwent her most violent period of blushing when in civics class she raised her hand as having been a visitor at the capitol building in Austin to hear June say in a guttural voice heard all over the room: "You have not!"

The time Miss Annie caught you going up the steps two at a time in order to make a class on time and had to report to her office immediately.

The time you looked at your test paper upside down and thought your grade was 16.

June Morse's most embarrassing moment was when she spilled a bowl of soup in a teacher's lap.

The time your beads broke in public.

The time you sat down in study hall and the seat wasn't there.

Difficult Decisions

Pink or blue for Baccalaureate—every girl in the graduating class.

Blonde or brunette—every boy in school.

Which is the biggest piece of pie—Thomas Oliver.

Checks or stripes for spring shirts—Sonny Mc.

To grow or not to grow a mustache—Dave Meers.

No difficult decisions, she has no beaux, so says Ruth Hickerson.

To drive one-handed or two-handed—Howard Dudgeon.

Who has the most fun—the folks or the people.

Who has the most troubles, the editor of the weekly or the editor of the annual.

Whether to or not to buy plus-fours like John Ed's—Billy Staton.

Whether to pass my plate or my glass when the preacher asks, "Will you have some corn?"—Howard Chumley.

Whether to eat his peas with his knife, with or without potatoes—Bill Barrett.

Whether to or not to invest in a red pair of suspenders—Eugene Rush.

Which tool to use at a formal dinner—Roy Jacobs.

To flunk or not to flunk—every Senior.

Whether to take the blame for Oscar's devilment—Paul Larnce.

Whether to sprint to his girl's home or to take a car—Dave Goddard.

Whether to use a windshield on his car or just let his specks serve the purpose—Clyde DeHay.

Whether to practice dancing with Elizabeth or play golf with Frances—Edison Hanna.

Whether to dye or not to dye his ruddy hair—Sam Alessandro.

Whether to break three hearts or four—R. C. Berkeley.

Whether to go by Ethelda or Ted—Ted Morse.

Whether to claim kin with Ben Turpen—Ella Turpen.

To wear or not to wear a dignified air in cap and gown—Faith Ainsworth.

To buy to not to buy the Tiger drug—Miss Osborn.

To go to the University of Texas or Baylor—Eugenia Early.

Whether to choose one or lose two—Gladys Lewis.

Shades of 1915

These bits of wit were taken from the 1915 Daisy Chain when jokes were jokes and censors evidently held full sway. If you don't like them blame them on the 1915 editor.

Miss Arbuckle: "Hosea, please stop talking."
Hosea: "I was only talking to myself."
Miss A.: "Well, next time you talk say it to someone who has more sense."

Will N.: "Hawaii? Hungary?"
Bob A.: "Yes, Siam."
Will N.: "Why don't the cook Fiji?"
Bob A.: "Alaska."

Teacher: "Correct this sentence: 'The toast was drank with great enthusiasm.'"
Freshman: "The toast was 'et,' not drank."

Mr. Willard: "Camille, what resulted when you applied the Fehling test to this cane sugar?"
Camille S.: "It 'busted' the test tube, and burnt my hand, and Susie's, and got all over Ruth's head."

Miss Agnes: "H. J. with what does 'Silas Marner' open?"
H. J.: "With the picture of George Eliot."

Mr. Genheimer: "His name is hobby, you know a Hobby is what you ride."
Latin Devotee: "No, Mr. Genheimer, you mean a pony."

Miss Annie: "The boys in some of the schools are wearing cotton overalls to school: now just think how much nicer they would look in neat cotton dresses."

A PARODY

In the gloaming, Oh, my darling,
Think not bitterly of me,
Tho' I dashed away in silence
Left you by a wayside tree;
I got mixed on the instructions,
Couldn't stop the Ford, you see.

Johnnie: "The horse is runnin'!"
Teacher: "You left off your "g", Johnnie."
Johnnie: "Gee, the horse is runnin'."

Cooking Teacher: "Bertha, discuss the dress of a stout woman."
Bertha: "Well, she never should wear stripes running around or ruffles to make her look fluffy, unless she has a lanky neck."

Mr. Rider: "How did the Dred Scott case come out?"
Marie: "It just wore out."

OUR DEAR SCHOOL

WACO HIGH is an enlarged edition of the Little Red Schoolhouse (only it ain't red) which is completely surrounded by green and shady trees (many dead and gone) and inhabited by students who co-operate with the teachers (when they make good grades) and teachers who are genuinely interested in the pupils (after dark). The school contains a Domestic Science laboratory (where they teach them how to burn toast and make candy) and a Mechanical Drawing Department (where they learn how to draw bathing girls) and a Department of Shop (in which the boys make shaky tables and chairs with permanent tacks in the middle). A famous Glee Club (which never sings in tune) and a Latin Department (whose members speak in depraved English), also are a part of the school.

The most important outdoor feature is the acting bar (for boys) and in the basement one finds the cafeteria (when One isn't broke).

The school has a principal and a whole flock of teachers, but they don't count unless you get in trouble. Each fellow has a locker where books are "hooked," and then you tell the teacher and once in a while get by with it. In the lockers are also found gym outfits—or misfits—and various odds and ends, some of the kids are very odd therefore have more odds. The teachers or joy-killers never do use discretion, but call attention to your hard luck all of the time and your slips in grammar when your best girl or fellow is present. The principal of the thing is an awful good egg, but does go too far sometimes in his assembly orations. He's kinda like an eight-day clock, wound up and bound to go.

On the outside of the building is a fire escape, but no one is expected to escape by this means even in a case of pushancy. Woe, to the kid seen gamboling on the 'scape. He gets an invitation to journey at home a spell. Then there's a gym where everybody has to go to develop his chest. The girls really learn how to dress in a hurry and to fuss. This ought to be prohibited for girls fuss too much already.

Well, school is just like pa says ma is—you can't live with it and you sure can't live without it. Waco High is the best high school we got so why fuss about the price of bananas in the Figi's when apples will do as well.

TO WHOM DO THESE BELONG?

They are the richest and most powerful monarchs the world has ever known. Their scepter is no emblem of fictitious rule, but signifies an authority which belittles that of ANCIENT CZARS. Their ermine cloaks no weakling, but enrobes a mighty power which dwarfs that of CAESAR. Their crown is no symbol of mock sovereignty—but indicates a sway that is absolute.

Why not prepare yourself to wear these mighty emblems?

The business world will demand them of you if you are to succeed.

L. N. (Jelly) Lee was manager of the 1927 Tiger football aggregation and during the season he made that his real business. He was a good manager, too. He got his start managing track in '26.

He really does not belong in the humor section, being a very serious-appearing young man, but there was no space for him in the football division, so here he is. Anyway he got a whole half page here, as much as the captain in the football section, and he deserves every bit of it.

Domestic Course For Boys

A new course for prospective coffee-pot dodgers has been offered at the Waco High School with Dan Stallworth as instructor. A large number of Waco's prospective leading citizens, who hope to walk the carpet as soon as they are able to convince girls that they would make ideal life mates, have signed up to take the work. Following are a number of points concerning wedded life that are being ably taught by Mr. Stallworth:

1. How to talk back.
2. How to put out the cat.
3. How to hook a lady up the back.
4. How to wind the clock.
5. How to dodge rolling pins.
6. How to eat spinach with a look of delight.
7. How to gracefully feed the goldfish.
8. How to dry dishes without a smash-up.
9. How to play bridge intelligently after a hard day's work.
10. To exercise the dog when requested to.
11. To pay the bills on the first of the month without fussing about new frocks and chapeaux.
12. To eat sinker biscuits with a benign mien.
13. How to hang pictures when dead tired.
14. To go shopping on a crowded Saturday.
15. To say, "Yes, Dear," even though displeased.

DEDICATION!

BECAUSE of her desire for a page to herself in this annual, her inferiority complex and her superior complexion we, the members of the Meaner Class of Waco High, most affectionately dedicate this portion of our annual to Miss Bertha Hotman, so she can't say we never did do anything for her.

STAFF EPITAPH

Here lies the Staff of the Daisy Chain
Who, tho' they strove with might and main,
And dipped their pens, and tore their hair,
And searched for things that were not there,
At last succumbed to the daily strain
But don't give to them the entire blame.

My New Glasses

Two chips of glass,
Before I never saw the stars,
Nor butterflies with painted bars,
Nor blades of grass.
The yellow bees
I never saw, nor little birds,
But only heard their friendly words
From blurred, green trees.
The world did seem
Vague, dull—I knew not why;
I only knew all earth and sky
Dim as a dream.
And then these bits of glass!
Oh, myriad life! Oh, wonder sight!
Oh, jeweled world! Oh, star-hung night!
My soul goes dancing with delight!
Thank God for chips of glass!

The Last Word

To the feminine goes the privilege of the last word, thank heavens.

THE flaws in this book may be plentiful as filling stations and as conspicuous as long skirts, but if you honestly think that you could have done much better with as little experience and as many trials as we had at the beginning, you have our full and free permission to shoot the entire staff—let us know and we'll load the gun.
